Lancaster Farming

Serving The Central and Southeastern Pennsylvania Areas

Vol. 20 No. 24 | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, April 26, 1975 | $3.00 Per Year

U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz parried questions from farm writers on Monday in Washington during the yearly spring meeting there of the Newspaper Farm Editors of America.

Farm Bill Hits Ford's Desk - Veto Expected

Agricultural observers in Washington this week were generally skeptical of the chances for enactment of the Emergency Farm Bill. Although the bill did pass both the House and the Senate this week, there seemed to be general agreement that President Ford would veto it when it finally reached his desk.

On Monday morning, in fact, Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz told a group of farm reporters that the president had told him he would definitely veto the farm bill. Butz made the statement before a meeting of the annual Washington conference of the Newspaper Farm Editors of America. If the bill is vetoed, there appear to be too few votes in either house to override.

The bill went to President Ford's desk on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and he has ten days to either sign or veto it. Butz said that there is a possibility that if the bill is vetoed, President Ford would follow that action with an immediate hike in the loan rates for feed grains. The present loan rate on corn, for example, is $1.10. The most often mentioned increase would put the new rate at $1.87.

Butz said he's personally opposed to the bill because it would be inflationary and because it would get the government back into the grain business. The bill is also opposed by the American Farm Bureau - because the target prices are too high - and by the National Farmers Union - because the target prices are too low.

"Consumer groups are half for and half against the bill." Butz added. "I do know that George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO is in favor of the bill. And I'm suspicious of any farm bill that he likes."

The main reason he opposes the bill, Butz said, is that it would increase inflation. "In the Department of Agriculture, we want to do everything we can to stand behind the President as he tries to bring fiscal sanity to the budget. I'm concerned about inflation. Farmers should be too, because one of the most serious problems

Youths Exhibit Projects At Conservation Contest

by: Melissa Piper

Karen Martin, a freshman at Garden Spot High School and member of the Grassland Environmental FFA Chapter, captured first place in the FFA Conservation Speaking contest held on Monday evening April 21, at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center.

Miss Martin, who lives on a dairy farm with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Martin, East Earl R1 topped a field of four public speaking candidates with her talk, "Where is our Land Going?"

Speaking with emotion, Miss Martin described how important farm land can be wasted by erosion and rain when not properly taken care of by conservation methods. She also explained the workings of zoning and land use planning as means to save Lancaster County's land from destruction.

The Lancaster County youth expressed concern that unless conservation methods were employed currently, our grandchildren might starve from lack of rich agricultural land on which to grown crops.

Also representing the Grassland Environmental FFA Chapter was Melody Huber, whose talk on the extinction of wildlife helped her attain second place in the contest. Miss Huber, who is also a freshman at Garden Spot High School resides at Bowmansville with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Huber.

Other contestants vying for honors in the conservation speaking contest were Gordon Lewis from Elizabethtown and Marty Hoover from Ephrata. Judges for the event were Sally Bealy, representing LEAF, Stanley Mussleman, area banker and Melissa

Lancaster Legislator Speaks To Farmers

Representative Kenneth Brandt spoke before a concerned audience on Thursday evening at a meeting of the Elizabethtown Young Farmers.

Brandt, a Lancaster County legislator and member of the State Agriculture Committee, commented on three agricultural laws which are currently pending in the House.

Commenting on Clean Stream Law and the need for farmers to have approved conservation and sedimentation plans by July 1, 1977, Brandt explained that the Ag Committee had spoken with DER on three occasions trying to pinpoint exactly what would need to be included in the farmer's conservation plans to meet the approval of the DER.

Brandt went on to explain that many members of the Ag Committee were still not sure exactly what would be required of the farmers and expressed his belief that DER was looking at the law from a different viewpoint.

"Farmers have been more conscious of conservation for a longer period of time," Brandt commented.

"We feel they probably know more about sedimentation problems from a farming standpoint than does DER."

Brandt explained that DER has been looking at the stream sedimentation

Red - White Cattle Becoming Popular

by: Melissa Piper

Throughout recent years, several new breeds of cattle have been introduced into the United States; many of these animals popular for their genetic capabilities, production performances or phenotypic variances. One such breed which has become increasingly popular over the past ten years is the Red and White Dairy animal.

Actually, the red and white dairy cattle had their beginnings many years ago in the lower countries of Europe. These red and white Dutch of Friesland dairy cattle existed even before the development of the black and white breed known in this country as Holsteins. Many of the animals of the European countries were transported to England where they were eventually crossed with the popular dairy animals of that country giving rise to various breeds known today, including the Ayrshire and the Milking Shorthorn.

The Red and White dairy cattle were somewhat slower in becoming popular in this country as the dominate color factor of the Holsteins became the prominent combination.

Although the Black and White Holsteins retained much of the dominate color characteristic, genetic recessive capabilities at times made it possible for two black and white animals to produce a red and white calf.

Often when this mating offspring occurred, the calf was instantly killed as it was thought of as a freak of nature and genetics. What many producers did not understand was that the animal was perfect except Dwight Houser, Lampeter, poses with some of the many trophies he has won as an active FFA member at the Lampeter-Strasburg High School. Dwight is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilbur Houser.

Lancaster Youth Raises Award Winning Crops

Dwight Houser is a young man who is known to many throughout Lancaster County for his outstanding work in FFA and 4-H.

Dwight, who is a senior at Lampeter-Strasburg High School, resides on a farm with his parents Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilbur Houser, in Lampeter and has been active in 4-H for nine years and in FFA throughout his four years in high school.

As an FFA member, Dwight has served his chapter as chaplain, news reporter and president. He has also served on the supervised farming project committee, field trip organization and on the Lampeter Hog and Steer Sale committee.

As projects, Dwight has taken swine fattening and breeding, beef finishing and corn production.

Corn production has been one of Dwight's favorite projects as can be seen by his many awards in that field. The youth placed second in the State for his corn yield which registered at 212 bushels per acre in the Muncy Chief corn competition. He was also selected to receive the proficiency award for crop production this spring.

Since Dwight lives on a small farm he must acquire land elsewhere to plant his corn crop.

"I do plant some on our farm and other plots on rented land."

"This year my production was good with 212 bushels per acre."

Along with his project work, Dwight has been involved in many FFA activities including being a member of the livestock judging teams. Last year, Dwight won a bronze medal and fourth place in the

Live Poultry Report
Wednesday, April 23

Prices unchanged to ½ cent lower on light type hens. Demand fair for barely adequate farm offerings as producers hold for continued production or recycle flocks. Offerings of heavy type hens adequate for a fair call.

Prices paid at farm: Light Type Hens 3-4½, mostly 4-4¼ in Pa., mostly 3½-4 in N.J.

Heavy Type Hens TFEWR.

Delmarva

Broiler-Fryer Market
Wednesday, April 23

Ready to cook movement fair at best. Slaughter schedules continue heavy in most quarters, in an effort to reduce sizes in the field. Today's less than trucklot asking prices held unchanged on both Plant and US Grade A. Advance interest developing satisfactorily at unchanged levels with this week. Live supplies ample at weights often heavier than desired. Undertone fully steady.

Negotiated trucklot prices 2-3 lb. ready to cook broiler-fryers for delivery - next week: US Grade A none, Plant Grade 39.

Current broiler-fryer negotiated prices for immediate delivery mostly multiple-drop shipments to New York City from Delmarva.

Range: US Grade A 39-41, Plant Grade 39-40; Premium US Grade A 42-44; Premium Plant Grade 41-42.

Wtd. Avg.: US Grade A 40.14, Plant Grade 39.17; Premium US Grade A 42.76; Premium Plant Grade 41.94.

Local Grain

Thursday, April 24

These prices are made up of the average prices quoted by a number of participating local feed and grain concerns. It should be noted, however, that not every dealer or broker handles each commodity. All prices are per bushel except ear corn which is per ton.

The average local grain prices quoted Thursday, April 24, 1975 are as follows:

	Bid+	Offered+
Ear Corn	63.50	72.75
Shelled Corn	2.94	3.20
Oats
Local	1.71	1.99
Western	——	2.22
Barley	2.06	2.37
Wheat
Millers	3.08	——

+Bid is the price the dealer will buy from the farmer delivered to the mill. Offered is the price the dealer will sell for at his mill.

Philadelphia Eggs

Wednesday, April 23

Prices steady. Cartoning demand very quiet. Offerings of all sizes adequate. Undertone steady.

Prices To Retailers: Sales to volume buyers, consumer grades white eggs in cartons, delivered: Store Door - A Extra Large 57-59½, A Large 56-58½, A Medium 50½-52½.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

APRIL 28-MAY 4, 1975

The woods are ready to bud and bloom.

You are late if you haven't started your spring cleaning . . . Emperor Hirohito of Japan born April 28, 1901 . . . Last quarter of the moon May 3 . . . Bees are seeking first pollen now . . . Average length of days for the week, 14 hours, 3 minutes . . . If it rains May 1 it will be a fertile year . . . New York's 1939 World's Fair opened April 30 . . . Twenty-cent pieces dropped May 2, 1878 . . . The question still remains: did Hitler commit suicide April 30, 1945? . . . Love knows no evil.

Old Farmer's Riddle: Why did the corn stalk hear so much? (Answer below.)

Ask the Old Farmer: Where did the expression "smart Alec" come from? F. D., Alexandria, Louisiana.

Our impression is that the term is very old, and that it originally indicated a person of unusual skill and sleight. We have a fragment of an old book, some 300 years old, in which there is a description of an entertainer of some sort. It calls him a "gay Alexander of exceeding smartness."

Home Hints: Varnished surfaces may have a rough look if the finishes are applied in rooms where dust has been stirred up by people walking around . Riddle answer Because it was all ears

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

Raising Yorkshire hogs has been one of many FFA projects for Dwight. An avid livestock judge, Dwight competed in both 4-H and FFA competitions.

Lancaster Youth

Livestock Judging contest at FFA State Days and went on to place first at the Eastern Regionals Expo held in Springfield, Mass.

Dwight's livestock judging has carried over into his 4-H work as he was also a member of the senior Lancaster County Livestock team last summer. In a recent competition held at Penn State Dwight judged with the 4-H team as an alternate.

For his outstanding work in FFA over the past four years, Dwight was presented with several awards at the Chapter's annual spring banquet which was held recently.

Dwight was presented with the Dekalb Award for being the outstanding senior and also received an award from the county banker's for his FFA work. The youth was also a recipient of the Keystone Farming Degree presented at the FFA Mid-Winter convention in January. Dwight is the fourth son in his family to have received the Keystone Degree.

As a 4-Her, Dwight has been a member of the Red Rose Baby Beef and Lamb Club and the Garden Spot Community Club. Along with his many successful beef and swine projects, Dwight has taken projects in sweet corn, strawberries and vegetable gardening.

Although his FFA and 4-H activities have kept him rather busy, Dwight has also worked as a stage crew member at the high school and is chariman of the project committee for the youth group at the Willow Street Mennonite Church.

He is also a member of the Lampeter Fire Company, the Pa. Yorkshire Coop Association and the American Yorkshire Club.

Following his graduation this spring, Dwight will be working as a co-herdsman for the dairy herd of Robert Hess in Strasburg.

"I like working with livestock and on the farm, so this will be what I wanted," Dwight commented. Dwight is currently working at the Hess farm part-time although when summer comes he hopes to be a "full fledged" farmer.

BEACON EGG FEEDS ARE ON THE MOVE!!!

Mr. Independent Commercial Eggman

HERE ARE ADVANTAGES OF FEEDING BEACON EGG FEEDS.

1. Beacon Milling Co., Inc. is a non integrated Northeastern Regional Feed manufacturer — we do not contract any poultry — we do not compete with you in the egg markets; We try to assist you!!

2. Beacon encourages cash payments on feed because we feel that lending institutions other than feed companies can meet your needs at a cheaper rate — this in turn allows us to lower cost per ton of feed to you.

3. We operate with a minimum number of marketing personnel (this is why you do not see a Beacon Marketing Representative very often) thus reducing the cost to you, our customer.

4. All our personnel are marketing oriented; Mr. Jim Campbell, our Production Superintendent, does his very best to produce top egg feeds.

5. Beacon as a company is service minded (not labor minded) meaning we give you outstanding technical service through Olin Rowoth, Vice President and Director of Research and Technical Services. Along with this, our delivery service is the best.

6. Beacon was the first feed company east of the Mississippi to have their own computer department thus giving you "least cost" formulation.

7. Olin Rowoth, Vice President and Director of Research and Technical Services, is one of the country's outstanding poultry nutritionist helping you with your individual problems.

8. We value you, our customer, as our most important asset

Farm Commentary

The Farm Bill Veto

It seems almost a foregone conclusion that President Ford will veto the Emergency Farm Bill which reached his desk on Wednesday afternoon. At least that's the impression we got this week during the annual Washington conference of the Newspaper Farm Editors of America.

Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz told the editors he's opposed to the bill, and added that the President had told him he'd veto it. Congressman Tom Foley, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, told the group that he believes the bill is a good one, that it's moderate and that he'd like to see it signed into law. But, Foley said, he feels it will be vetoed and he doesn't think there are enough votes in either house to override the veto.

There was some speculation though that in his veto message, President Ford would increase loan rates on feed grains. The loan rate for corn was expected to go to $1.85 from its present level of $1.10.

To find out how increased loan rates would affect farmers in Southeast Pennsylvania, we talked on Thursday to Penn State farm economist H. Louis Moore. Moore said he doesn't feel loan rates have any great impact here. He said grain prices seem headed lower. While a $1.85 loan rate could keep the market from dipping under that level, a completely open market wouldn't be likely to slip much under that anyway.

So, if corn producers here are willing to put their crops under loan, they'll be able to insure themselves a $1.85 price, which by all accounts is a modest loss. And livestock feeders who buy grain on the market can probably expect to see drastically reduced feed costs in the months ahead. But the costs to feeders and the returns to growers are more likely to reflect market conditions than a low level of government support.

Cutbacks and $1.75 Corn

We had a chance this week to talk with farm editors from all over the country about the affect of the farmer movement to cut back corn and other grain production to boost prices in the fall.

There was a lot of interest in the movement. And a lot of people attended meetings like the one we reported on earlier. where 5000 farmers gathered in Ames, Iowa. But the net effect of all the effort seems to have virtually nil, according to the editors we talked to, who were in Washington to attend the annual conference of the Newspaper Farm Editors of America.

We discussed our findings with Lou Moore at Penn State, and he said his sources reveal the same thing. Moore said farmers are expected to plant only three percent less corn than last year, and that favorable weather would bring the price down to between $1.75 and $2.25 per bushel for the 1975 crop. This is at or below the cost of production, which last year was pegged at $2.21 for Illinois growers. A lot of farmers are understandably scared of the market.

"Nobody wants to see grain prices fall out of bed," Moore told us. "Even livestock producers would rather get higher prices for their products so they could pay the grain farmers at least enough to give them a fair return."

Moore said he'd talked to one man who's been driving from Pennsylvania to Indiana every year in the spring. This year, he said he saw more land ready for corn planting than ever before. "There was so much fall plowing and early fertilization that farmers just went ahead and committed themselves to planting as much as they could."

Cattle on Feed Hit 12-Year Low

Cattle and calves on feed April 1 for slaughter market in 23 States estimated at 8,452,000, that's down 31 pct. from a year earlier, 37 pct. below the April 1, 1973 total — and the lowest April 1 total since 1963.

Sharpest declines from a year ago were in California, Texas, New Mexico and Montana. California's total (at 479,000) was down 50 pct. from a year ago. Texas' total (at 1,122,000) was down 49 pct., New Mexico's (at 125,000) and Montana's (at 62,000) down 47 pct. and 46 pct., respectively. Nebraska's total (at 960,000) head was down 30 pct., Iowa's (at 1,160,000) was off one-third — but it still left it the Nation's leader.

A couple of switches in the pattern: Wisconsin's total, at 125,000 head, was up 6 pct. from a year earlier; Illinois total was unchanged. It should be noted that the Illinois total was 500,000 a year earlier, 500,000 on Jan. 1, 1975, and 500,000 on April 1.

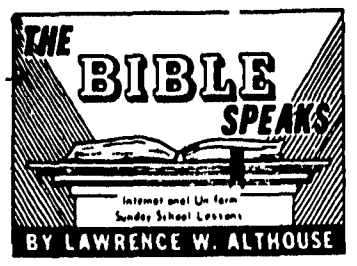
Jan. - March placements in the 23 States totaled 4,712,000 head, down 19 pct. from a year earlier. Fed cattle marketings for the period from those states totaled 5,487,000 head, down 9 pct. from a year earlier, 17 pct. below the same period two years earlier.

Chick Hatches Under Year Ago

Chick hatches continue to run below year ago levels. March broiler-type hatch, at 277 4 million chicks, down 6 pct. from a year earlier.

This marked the 12th straight month this hatch has run below that of a corresponding month a year earlier. March totals brought the broiler-type hatch for the first 3 months to 768.4 million, down 7 pct. from a year earlier.

Meanwhile, the egg-type hatch totaled 46.0 million during March, down fractionally from a year earlier, and this marked the 11th straight month this hatch has been below that of a corresponding month a year earlier. The Jan. - Mar. total 118.3 million, down 1 pct. from a year earlier.



STRANGE LOVE

Lesson for April 27, 1975

Background Scripture: Psalms 136, Isaiah 55
Devotional Reading: Psalms 117; 118: 1-6.

A week ago I stood at Jacob's Well just outside the city of Nablus in Israel's occupied West Bank. The well, believed to be dug thousands of years ago by the Patriarch Jacob, is also thought to be the well Sychar where Jesus encountered the Samaritan woman.

"Can we drink the water?" our group wanted to know. "Of course," said Elias, our guide," but remember what the Lord Jesus said: 'Everyone who drinks of this water will thirst again, but whoever drinks of the water that I shall give him will never thirst . . . " (John 4:13).

He was right: the water was refreshing, but it wasn't long until we were thirsty again.

"Why do you spend your money...?"

This is one of life's lessons: material goods do not bring us either long-lasting relief or satisfaction. The lure of the material is that it seems to promise us something which it cannot deliver.

Have you ever looked forward to going to an expensive, well-known restaurant? If you have, you have probably realized that, no matter how good the food is, the satisfaction it gives is but momentary. Someone told me recently of a friend who will sometimes when he is at a fine restaurant will spend a hundred dollars or more for a bottle of wine. "Frankly," my friend told me, "it didn't taste any different than a three-dollar wine."

I'm sure that a wine connoisseur would take exception with that last observation, but it is at least indicative that what we pay for a material good does not necessarily insure that its benefit will be longer-lasting. This is what Isaiah meant when he cried:

Why do you spend your money for that which is not bread, and your labor for that which does not satisfy? (Isaiah 55:2)

God offers us something that nothing can dissipate: his love.

"While he is near . . . "

While this love of God cannot be puuchased, neither is it delivered with the morning milk! If we want this gift from God, we must be receptive: "Seek the Lord while he may be found, call upon him while he is near." (55:6). It is our human nature to put off accepting God's gracious gifts.

Furthermore, something else is required of us:

". . . let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; let him return to the Lord, that he may have mercy on him, and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon" (55:7)

From man's point of view, the love of God is a mystery. It satisfies our deepest thirsts and hungers and yet it is freely offered to us for the taking.

It is a strange love. But, then, as God tells us: "my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways. It is not necessary to understand this strange love, just enough to receive it.

To Evaluate "Clean and Green"

Recent publicity regarding this special farm land tax assessment program should cause local land owners to consider the program. After talking with Leo Grasser at the County Tax Assessment Office, there are still many uncertain facts in this program; however, there is a law to give special assessment to farm land based upon the capability of the land and not on the current market value. The timing of this assessment is still uncertain, but it is suggested that land owners who want this special assessment consideration for the 1976 tax year fill out an application form by July 1. These are available from the County Tax Assessment Office, 37 North Duke St. Lancaster, Pa. If the program cannot be initiated in 1976, then these applications will be on file for the 1977 tax year.

To Check Waste Disposal Practices

Many folks are on the alert for both stream and air pollution this time of the year. Local livestock and poultry producers are urged to be extremely careful in the spreading of this current manure crop. Field applications should be made early in the day rather than late afternoon; also, manure spread on fast drying days will produce less odors. Soil injection of the manure or incorporating into the soil as quickly as possible, after spreading, will give more general satisfaction and preserve more fertilizer values. Do not spread manure on slopes close to public streams or on fields close to streams without adequate sod buffer strips.

To Protect Gardens

Many gardeners find that birds and rodents also like flowers and vegetable plants. The control of wild birds is very difficult and the covering of the plants with cheesecloth, or some other very light material, gives best results. Rabbits are very damaging in many places and especially in the suburbs. Repellent sprays are not too successful and trapping and removing from the area is a very slow task. The enclosing of the garden, or area, with 24 to 30-inch chicken wire (or small mesh) fence works the best for rabbit control. If the problem included muskrats, raccoons, or groundhogs, then control is much more difficult because these animals can climb over the fence. Local game wardens can be constuled for recommended control practices.

To Feed Hay On Pasture

The pasture season is at hand when many herds and flocks will be glad to fill up on the lush grass. We urge special handling of the animals on fresh grass to avoid bloating and digestive trouble. One if the most successful practices is to continue to feed hay, or other dry matter, during the entire pasture season. This will not only prevent bloating but slow down the passage of the lush forage through the digestive tract and enables more time for the digestive juices to extract the feed value. Animals on forage containing legumes such as alfalfa or clover, need more dry matter and more attention in order to prevent bloating.

Red and White Dairy

It wasn't until the late 1940's that the Red and White animals were developed into a separate breed. A man by the name of Larry Moore who resided in Wisconsin at that time became interested in the red coloring of the Holstein animals following the gift of a red bull calf. The bull which received the name of Larry Moore King became one of the great foundation sires of the red and white dairy animals.

Another bull which contributed much to the foundation of the red and white breed was ABC Reflection Sovereign which was sired in the 1950's by ABC Reflection Sovereign EX. Since ABC Reflection carried the red factor for coloring many of his progeny have been red and white in coloring even coming from famous black and white matings.

At the Myer Farm everyone gets into the Red and White business, even the visitors. Lancaster Farming's Associate Editor, Melissa Piper, was asked to pose with one of the farm's bull calves, a son of Paclamar Milestone.

Within the next several years, the Red and White dairy animals were produced but without an organized society to guide the registrations. None of the purebred registrys wanted to recognize the animals since they were often not a total percentage of any type of dairy cattle. Thus in 1963, the National Red and White Association was formed in Illinois.

However, after about six years when the popularity of the animals was recognized the National Holstein Association began registering the Red and White Holstein. It is important to note that the red and white animal can either be termed as Red and White Holstein meaning that the parents were of registered Holstein stock while a red and white dairy animal can be of other breeds crossed. Much controvery has been raised over this classification throughout the breed's history. Presently both associations still register the animals.

In January of 1969, the board of directors for the Red and White Dairy Cattle Association agreed upon and published the rules of registry for the animals on three levels.

It was decided that to be given purebred status, the animal must be red and white, red, white or red roan in color which is traceable to verified black and white holstein parents that were with purebred or grade animals. Or the animals had to come up through the ranks of other registry levels in the proper manner.

The Provisional status of registry was evidence with all grade animals of any dairy breeds being accepted. This provisional registering step had made it possible for many dairy animals which were not previously able to be accounted in a registry to have records kept on them. This step has not met with all favor, however.

The third step of registry was that of Imtermediate levels. Although it did include registry for Red and White calf from grade holstein breeding along with any black and white calf resulting from breeding of a purebred registered Red and White sire to a dam registered in the Red and White Provisional registry.

Red and White Holsteins are registerd with the Holstein - Freisian Association identically like the Black and White animals.

Popularity and Advantages

The Red and White Dairy Cattle Association is one of the fastest growing organizations in the United States today. And while many of the other dairy cattle associations have seen decreases in membership, people have questioned why the Red and White Association has grown.

One major reason for their popularity is that the Red and White animals have a greater endurance for heat than many of the other dairy animals, because of their red skin. For this reason they have become increasingly popular in the warmer weather areas and also in Central and South America.

Also the Red and White breed has become important as a crossbreeding tool. Many of the dual beef-milking breeds of the European countries have begun using the animals to bring more diary qualities into their herds while retaining original colors on breeds. Also many producers like the cattle for their color combinations.

Kenneth D. Myer, Elizabethtown R3, shows one of his Red and White Dairy animals. Myer's cattle have proven to be successful both in the show ring and for production. In her last lactation, Rusty recorded 800 pounds of butterfat with 21,000 pounds of milk.

Use In Pa.

With Pennsylvania being one of the most important dairy states, it is not suprising that the red and white animals have found their way into many herds. It is estimated that approximately 60 producers in the state now have a dominate herd of red and white animals.

One of the best known Red and White producers in the State and Lancaster County is Kenneth Myer, Elizabethtown R3.

Although Myer has been raising dairy animals for the past 16 years, he began selecting animals for a red and white foundation herd about five years ago.

Up until that time, Myer had been milking a herd of Guernseys and although he still belives that Guernsey milk is in his words "the best" Myer wanter to upgrade his herd for better production.

"I decided to give the Red and White's a try so I began buying up small calves," Myer commented.

"In 1970 I began building up a foundation herd and bought up animals some of which came from Canada."

Myer now has about 100 Red and White dairy cows which have proven to be quite outstanding both in the show ring and for production.

At this year's National Red and White Sale Myer consigned the top selling cow, Polscroft Ann, which brought $3300. The animal was purchased by Jon Knight of Strawberry Point, Iowa.

Kenneth Myer's father, Samuel also raises Red and White's helping to make the operation a family affair. Most of the Myer's cattle are registered with the Holstein-Friesian Association as purebred animals.

White producer, Kenneth Myer is well known in Lancaster County for his work as president of the Elizabethtown Young Farmers and president of the Jaycees. Myer is also a director of the Elizabethtown Chamber of Commerce and the area Blood Bank.

Along with managing his herd, Myer has served as president of the Pa. Red and White Dairy Cattle Association since its inception four years ago. Vice-president and another large producer in Pa. is Karl Herr of Kirkwood with Glenda Trux of western Pa. as secretary-treasurer.

The Pa. Association held their first annual Penn National sale this past March in Harrisburg. Although bad weather hampered many from attending, the sale was quite successful. The sale was co-managed by Kenneth Myer and Merv Scott, field representative for the Red and White Association.

The National Red and White Dairy Association is located in Elgin, Illinois with J. P. Ostranger as president. The association publishes a monthly newsletter for Red and White producers called the "Red Bloodlines." John Carpenter, Crystal Springs, Pa., is editor of the publication.

For further information on the breed, John Carpenter can be contacted at Crystal Springs, Pa. or interested people can write to the National Headquarters Box 771. Elgin, Illinois.

farmers face is inflation. No group in our society is hurt more by inflation than farmers.

"They sell on a roller coaster market. Their prices go up and down. But their costs only go up. And once those costs go up, they stay up."

Striking out at the critics who say USDA has no food policy, Butz, said, "We do have a food policy, the most positive food policy we've had in 40 years. It's based on maximum utilization of the American potential to produce food. We can only carry out food policy like that by giving farmers maximum freedom to produce for an open market."

Food as a source of foreign exchange and a tool of diplomacy were two other subjects Butz touched on. He noted that the American food producing regions could not be matched for size and productivity by any other part of the world. Butz said farm exports last year reached $21.3 billion, the highest in history and were the number one source of foreign exchange. "If we are smart enough to take advantage of our strength in food, we can use it as a positive factor in diplomacy, and in building world peace. But we don't need legislation like the farm bill that will inhibit our ability to use that production capacity to the fullest," Butz concluded.

On Monday night, Tom Foley, chairman of the House Agricultural Committee, talked to the farm editors. He told them he thinks the farm bill is a good one, and he'd like to see it pass, but he doesn't think it will. "If we do get a veto," he said, "we will go back to trying to update the 1973 farm bill. No matter what, I think we'll see an omnibus farm bill coming up for consideration, probably this fall."

In his speech, Foley talked about the new look in Congress and a new stature for members of the House Ag committee. Foley is a 46-year-old Democrat from Washington who replaced Walter Poage this year as chairman of the committee. He said more Congressmen than ever asked for seats on the agriculture committee this year. While most of the members still come from predominantly rural areas, there are four consumer spokesmen serving this year. "I like having that kind of diversity on my committee," Foley said. "I don't really feel that consumer and farmer interests are that much different."

Two freshman Congressmen who sit on Foley's committee also talked to the farm editors during their stay in Washington. W. Henson Moore, a Louisiana Republican who represents one urban and five rural counties in the Baton Rouge area, told the writers he tinks the president will veto the bill. But Moore hopes the veto message will do much to salve the wounds of farmers who may suffer without government price supports to cover their losses. "We've asked the president to tell farmers he would not ask for any export controls as long as he is in office. We've asked him to tell farmers that the government will throw its support behind farmers whereever it can, and we've asked him to raise some loan rates at the same time be vetoes the farm bill.

Frederick W. Richmond, a Democrat from Brooklyn, N.Y., is another freshman member of the House ag committee. He told the farm writers that food prices in New York City were much too high, but that prices in general could be brought down if the criminal elements in that city were removed from the food marketing chain.

Tractor Pull Schedule Is Set At Buck

Tractor pulling returns to the Buck this year at 7:00 p.m. on Saturday, May 17, according to Elwood Funk, president of Buck Tractor Pulls.

In all, there will be 27 events at the Buck this year, stretching through the season to October 11, the date of the Buck Pull Off. Most of the pulls will be held on Saturday nights, and most will be sanctioned by the Pennsylvania Tractor Pullers Association.

Funk said this year there will be three afternoon events featuring farm tractors. These will begin at 1:00 p.m. amd will be held on June 28, July 19, and August 23.

National pulls, sanctioned by the National Tractor Pullers Association have been slated for June 20-21, and september 26-27. A national mini-tractor pull will be held on July 4-5, beginning at 7:00 p.m. each evening.

Arcadian Liquid.

Easy way to feed and weed.

Knock off two important jobs in one easy trip. Just add a proper herbicide to Arcadian Golden URAN® or SLF mixed liquid fertilizer while the circulator pump is running, and weed as you feed in one trip over your field. One feed and weed application can do away with several time-consuming cultivations and the resulting crop thinning, root damage and soil compaction.

Your crops grow faster when roots don't have to compete with weeds for plant food and moisture. And the bigger yields are easier to harvest in weed-free fields.

Only liquid makes feed and weed so easy. It's easier still when you have us do the job for you. Our custom application will free you for other jobs and assures uniform results. So stop in or call. You can count on us to give you the best combination of crop protection chemicals and liquid fertilizers.

Penn Willow 4-Hers Collect Cancer Funds

Members of the Penn Willow 4-H Club collected contributions for the Lancaster County Chapter of the American Cancer Society for the second straight year.

Forty 4-Hers from age eight to eighteen knocked on doors in Conestoga Township from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. and when they met at the Conestoga Elementary School for a final tally they had $357.52 for the Cancer Society.

The Cancer Drive, under the leadership of Mrs. Joan Huber, laid out the routes to be taken. Nearly every road in Conestoga Township was covered.

Drivers for the Cancer Drive were as Follows: Ruth Berrier, Mrs. Dagen, Darla Kreider, Pat Sourbeer, Mrs. Sheesley, Nancy Waite, Dawn Reish, Kathy Huber, Doris Warfel, Linda Stekervetz, and Margot Martin.

The next monthly meeting will be the annual clean up of the Conestoga Township roads on May 2 at 6:30.

Agri-King Through the Eyes of an Average Lancaster County Farmer

Richard Boll
RD2
Lititz, PA

Testimonial:

"We started on the Agri-King feeding program in February, 1973 with a rolling herd average of about 12,000 pounds milk. By April, 1975 our rolling herd average is 15,309 pounds milk and we're averaging 56 pounds milk shipped per cow on milking cows. Two years ago I did not think this was possible with our quality cattle. Most all our cows are grades and we raise our own replacements.

I feel that one of the biggest things that helped us get this production is the quality of roughage we have to feed our cows and feeding it in a balanced feeding program. We treated all our corn silage, haylage and hay with Silo King last year and it was the best quality roughage we've made. Our haylage juiced a little but that was because I chopped it over 75 percent moisture I had windrowed my hay too tight and the air could not get through it. I thought this haylage would stink and the cows wouldn't like it. I'm in the bottom three doors of that silo now and the cows eat it like candy.

I feel it pays to take good care of my young stock - grow my heifers and yet not get them too fat My heifers are freshening at 2 years old and some are milking as high as 70 pounds milk. My cows get mostly corn silage (about 40 pounds per cow), 12 pounds haylage, 5 pounds hay, and grain is fed according to production. The grain ration is made up of corn, a little oats, and the protein, calcium, phosphorus, vitamins, and trace minerals necessary according to my roughage tests. I think samples should be run every 4-6 weeks to get a good job done"

Growing Degree Day

This is the first in a series of weekly crop and weather reports to be issued during the 1975 crop season.

A late spring, including the cool and dry weather last week, has delayed crop development and progress of farm activities in the Commonwealth. Although activities last week generally included plowing, seeding of oats and fruit tree pruning in the South - the lateness of the season in the central and northern counties limited plowing and seeding of oats along with general activities such as grape trimming and tieing and machinery preparation. However, the cool spring has extended the season for making maple syrup.

Throughout the state soil moisture is rated mostly adequate to somewhat short, which is dryer at this time than in recent years.

Spring plowing is about one-fourth complete with 16 percent done in the north, one-third in central counties; and nearly one-half in the south. Last year for the state it was nearing one-third complete at this time.

The oats and tobacco crops are about one-fifth in and tobacco barely started. These also are behind recent years. Oats are under 10 percent planted in the north, nearly one-fifth in central and over two-thirds planted in southern counties.

The reported condition of the hay crop at fair to good reflects the cool late spring. There were a few reports of poor condition, unusual for this time of year.

Fruits have come through the winter in good condition. However, only a little bud swelling has occured in the south with none in central or northern areas.

Celebrating 50 Years In Farm Equipment

On March 21, 1925, Horace Miller reported to Landis Brothers, a farm implement dealership in Lancaster, signing on for a one-day job as a laborer. Miller overstayed his original contract by half-a-century and is today president of the corporation that grew out of the family business that hired him. Miller's friends and coworkers recently hosted a suprise party to honor him for his 50-year career in the farm equipment business.

In a conversation with Lancaster Farming, Miller recalled that when he first started with the company, they sold mostly horse-drawn implements with steel wheels. The big chance to tractors started in the early 30's when the average horsepower was either "8-16" or "10-20". The first number referred to horsepower at the drawbar, and the second to horsepower off the belt.

Another big change that Miller has seen has been the switch to self-propelled units like combines and forage harvesters. In recent years, he noted, supplies of farm equipment have been tighter than at any other time except during the war. The big change in marketing recently has been the allotment system imposed upon dealers by manufacturers.

In 1953, the firm moved from its old headquarters over the old center city Northern Market to its present facilities at 1305 Manheim Pike. The business was incorporated in 1960 with Miller as president.

Although he's now three years past the retirement age of 65, Miller said he doesn't plan to retire. Nor does he show any indications of slowing up. He works daily in the parts department, the office and the shop, and is sometimes on the road.

Miller and his wife, Erma, have two sons and one daughter. The daughter lives with her husband in Key West, Florida. Their son Richard is the bookkeeper and secretary-treasurer for Landis Brothers, and the other son, Charles, works as a mechanic in the shop.

Horace Miller, president of Landis Brothers, a Lancaster farm equipment dealership, was guest of honor recently at a party held on his 50th anniversary in the farm equipment business. Miller began his career with the firm he now heads, when Landis Brothers was located above the old Northern Market in Lancaster.

Entries Due for Sewing Contest

Harrisburg -- The Pennsylvania State Grange today warned that April 30 is the deadline for submitting entries in the 1975 Grange sewing contest.

More than 2,000 entries are expected this year, according to Mrs. Leroy Hoover, of Roaring Spring, director of women's activities for the state Grange. Among entries already received is one from a 14-year-old boy, Mrs. Hoover said.

Local and county judging will begin immediately after the close of the contest and will be completed by mid-May. Judging in the state competition is scheduled for May 29. Winning entries in the state competition will be eligible for the national contest judging in June.

Entry blanks may be obtained from women's activities chairmen of local Granges, Mrs. Hoover said. The contest is open to Grange members and nonmembers who are sponsored by Grangers, she added.

Guernsey's Produce High Milk Records

Two registered Guernsey cows in the herd of Raymond & Louise Witmer, Penn-Del Farm, Willow Street, completed top official DHIR actual production records, according to The American Guernsey Cattle Club. All cows were milked two times a day. The testing was supervised by Pennsylvania State University, University Park, Pennsylvania.

Guernsey milk is world famous for it's high protein, delicious flavor and Golden Yellow color. Holliknoll Billys Pride, an eight year old, produced 15,570 pounds of milk and 701 pounds of fat, in 305 days. Stone House Nances Cindy a seven year old, produced 14,930 pounds of milk and 657 pounds of fat, in 305 days.

State Holstein Show Winners Announced

A total of 365 head of Registered Holsteins were shown before Judge Richard Brooks of Paclamar Farms, Lousiville, Colorado at the 22nd Annual Pennsylvania State Holstein Show in Harrisburg, Pa.

Selected as Senior Champion Female and Grand Champion of this year's show was Hillglen Dixie Fashion, a six year old cow shown by Linda Lou Kauffman of Elizabethtown, Pa. Following with Reserve Champion honors was Oxford Homestead Vivian, a seven year old cow from the herd of Obie and Bruce Snider, Imler, Pa. Judge Brooks praised the quality of the class winners when selecting the champions. A bull calf, Providence Haven Count Citation was named Champion Bull. He was exhibited by Providence Haven Holsteins, Inc. and Russel Miller, Jr. of Carlisle, Pa.

The coveted Premier Breeder Award, baised on points earned by high placing entries in the individual classes, was shared by Paul R. King and Family and George Knight and Family, both of York County. Premier Exhibitor honors were bestowed upon Woodbine Holsteins, George Knight and Family of Airville, Pa. While the Kings from Delta were just behind.

The highly contested Best Three Females class was captured by Singing Brook Farms from Imler, Pa. This class recognizes the breeder who has bred and developed three top cows which make up this group class.

Four daughters by Paclamar Astronaut won the Senior Get of Sire class for Obie and Bruce Snider while the Junior Get the Sire class was copped by the Snider's also, with four young daughters of Paclamar Astro Jet.

The top Produce of Dam went to two daughters of Fran Marco Paramount exhibited by Paul E. Miller of Linglestown, Pa. and Robert E. Gitt of Littlestown, Pa. The Dam and Daughter combination was headed by two cows owned by George Knight and Family of Airville, Pa.

For better herd health and a good calf crop

Feed Bovotone 20-R

Fortifying brood cow rations is just as important and every bit as complex as fortifying feed lot cattle rations. That's why Vigortone developed Bovotone 20-R. This proven pre-mix assists the cow-calf man in providing the proper levels of nutrition so important to achieving an excellent calf crop and good herd health.

Bovotone 20-R for poor quality roughages

Bovotone 20-R has been specifically formulated to meet the needs of beef cattle consuming poor quality roughages such as weathered range grasses, corn stalk fields or other harvested field aftermath. Since these kinds of roughages make up the bulk of the brood cow's diet during the winter season, it's more important than ever to fortify them properly.

In additon to high levels of vitamins and minerals, Bovotone 20-R also contains live cell yeast culture. For year-around feeding, you can't beat 20-R.

Bovotone No. 70

During those periods of the year when grass tetany is a problem, feed Vigortone's Bovotone No. 70. This pre-mix contains a high level of magnesium. Unlike other products containing abundant magnesium, Bovotone No. 70 is highly palatable and easier to feed.

See your Vigortone serviceman soon for all the details on why more cow-calf men are feeding Vigortone pre-mixes — especially now.

SOW CASTLE... the new economical, plug-up-and-go total farrowing environment

Models come 12 or 24 feet wide (24-foot model shown here), in lengths of 32 or 50 feet. All 24-foot wide buildings have an entry door in each end. See chart on back of this sheet for more specifications.
Built-in ventilation system keeps building dry and provides fresh air for animal health. Unique air flow system pulls air in at roof ridge line, circulates it over the top of the animals, through the pit, and out. Note that design of roof system eliminates the need for any massive bulkheads that could restrict air flow.
Each farrowing stall has an adjustable sow feeder and automatic water cup. Nipple waterer is optional in place of water cup. Stall sides are adjustable to size of sow. Nursery feeders are provided for pigs.
Farrowing stalls and nursery areas are equipped with aluminum T-slats in the floor, over solid individual pits that run across the building with a 4' center passage.

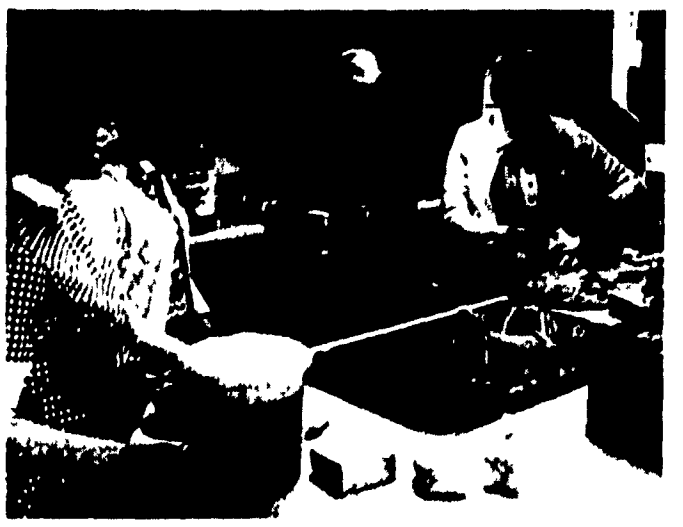
Neighbors Help Injured Farmer

The humming of some 40 tractors could be heard around the Stevens area on Tuesday morning, as neighbors and members of the Ephrata Young Farmers gathered to plow for John R. Zimmerman.

Zimmerman, who resides at Ephrata R1, is recuperating from a back operation and has not been able to do his spring plowing and discing for the upcoming corn planting season. When neighbors learned of his condition, they offered their services with the members of the Young Farmers pitching in also. The workmen plowed and prepared about 80 acres for Zimmerman.

A luncheon was prepared for the workers by Mrs. Zimmerman and her friends and relatives.



While the men were busy in the fields, the women prepared a luncheon. Those helping with the food were friends and relatives of Mrs. Zimmerman.

John Zimmerman, watches from the window as 50 of his neighbors and the Ephrata Young Farmers tilled his land in preparation for the corn planting season.

The hum of tractors could be heard for miles around Ephrata on Tuesday morning as nearly 50 neighbors and Ephrata Young Farmers joined together to plow the fields for John R. Zimmerman who is still recuperating from a back operation.

Ladies Travel Heritage Trail for PFA Program

Mrs. Robert Kauffman, Elizabethtown, served as mistress of ceremonies for the annual PFA Ladies Day Out held at the Treadway Inn on Wednesday afternoon (April 23).

Over 300 women from Lancaster and nearby counties traveled along the Heritage Trail during the annual Pennsylvania Farmers Association's Ladies Day Out held Wednesday, April 23.

The day's activities began with a tour of several farm homes in the county which were labeled as the "Heritage Trail" since many of the homes had been in existence for over one hundred years and still contained many of the period furniture pieces.

The meeting included a luncheon held at the Treadway Inn. Mrs. Robert Kauffman, chairlady for the women's committee of PFA gave the welcoming remarks with meditation and devotional passages being read by Mrs. Charles Rohrer.

Keynote speaker for the event was Donald Hershey, president of the Lancaster Farmer's Association. Hershey explained in his talk that farming is a "big business" with farmers handling large sums of money. Hershey explained that farmers today require help and commented on the association's lobbyist activities in Harrisburg.

In an effort to explain the high cost of food, Hershey pointed out that all costs have increased for the farmer of today and that in relation to other countries in the world, the United States consumer still pays relatively little for food.

Maureen Houck, singing a rendition of the Lord's Prayer captured first place in the talent competition and will be representing the county in the regional contest in July. Other contestants in the talent event were Doris Hershey and Diane Hawthorne.

Musical entertainment was provided by Don Witman, Tim Eshleman and Kevin Earhart, a trumpet trio from the Donegal area.

Chairlady for the Ladies Day Out program was Mrs. Michael Grove, Jr. with Mrs. J. Richard Garber as co-chairlady. Other members assisting were Mrs. Richard Hess, Mrs. William Diehm, Mrs. Dan Brennaman (who provided art work) and Mrs. Harold Rohrer.

AGWAY

How to make more milk from the same amount of feed

The "balanced bite" is one key
The Schwartz Mixer Wagon is the other

Cows vary greatly in their individual preferences for one forage over another. So while some of your cows may be getting the diet they need to maintain peak production, others may be short-changing themselves . . getting plenty of protein perhaps, but not enough energy to balance it. What can you do about it?

The Agway Total Mixed Ration
TMR is the best way yet devised for feeding a ration that's perfectly balanced for nutrient content. It eliminates cows' preferences.

But TMR feeding can be no better than the equipment used to mix the ration. Accurate measuring and thorough mixing are musts.

Farm Systems Service

Most versatile way to feed TMR ...the Schwartz Mixer Wagon
It accurately proportions, thoroughly mixes, then transports and distributes nutrients in any prescribed amount and formulation So it's easy to feed the right ration any place on your farm.

Triple augers tumble and turn feed end to end to perfectly blend liquid, granular or pelleted supplements into silage, chopped hay or ground grain. Five to seven minutes does the job. Controls are convenient—and positive. Solid construction assures trouble-free operation. Three sizes to choose from.

An Agway salesman will be happy to discuss TMR with you. He can also arrange a demonstration of the Schwartz Mixer Wagon Call Agway today

Area Women Participate In NFU Wash. Fly-In

Over 100 Farmers Union women converged on the Nation's Capital this week to participate in the first organized Washington effort to obtain a national food policy through the new "Alliance for Food, Employment, and Resource Policy.".

Among the women from the Lancaster-York area were Mrs. John Sangrey, Mrs. Robert Spahr and Mrs. Philip Laughman.

During their four day trip, the participants in the "Women's Fly-In" attended an all-day briefing session by the National Farmers Union staff, visited their own Congressional offices on Capital Hill, met with officials at the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and squeezed in time for some sightseeing in and around the Nation's Capital.

Bill Walker, the national coordinator for the event, described the goals of the new group. He told the women that the farmer-consumer alliance "is working to establish a comprehensive farm and food policy; to put America back to work; and to allocate scarce resources and credit to productive uses."

To begin with, Walker said, the Alliance is asking as many farmer and consumer groups as possible to pass a resolution calling for a national food policy to:

"... protect our food supply by stabilizing farm prices through food reserves and reasonable maximum and minimum parity guarantees, keeping our nation's farmers in production and resulting in protection for the consuming public by avoiding unnecessary and severe supply and price fluctuations."

Helen Kramer of the United Auto Workers union, which is a co-founder of the new Alliance with Farmers Union, told the women that the UAW supports all efforts to obtain income security. "That includes farmers," she said.

"The UAW has a vital interest in a rational agricultural policy which will provide stable prices for farmers and fair prices to consumers." Ms. Kramer said full employment in the country benefits everyone. She noted that unemployed wage-earners cut back on food purchases which reduces the demand for farm products.

A call to the Farmers Union women to participate more actively in International Women's Year was made by economist Mary Dublin Keyserling. She emphasized that the views of farm women were not being represented in the various commissions on the status of women. Farm women, she said, must become more involved in efforts to improve health, education, housing, and other social needs in rural areas.

Three Lancaster-York area women were among the more than 100 Farmers Union women who were in Washington this week to encourage a new national food policy. The area participants were, from left to right, Mrs. Phillip Laughman, Mrs. John Sangrey and Mrs. Robert Spahr.

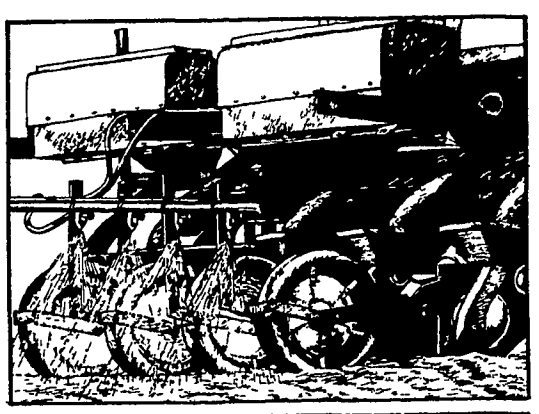
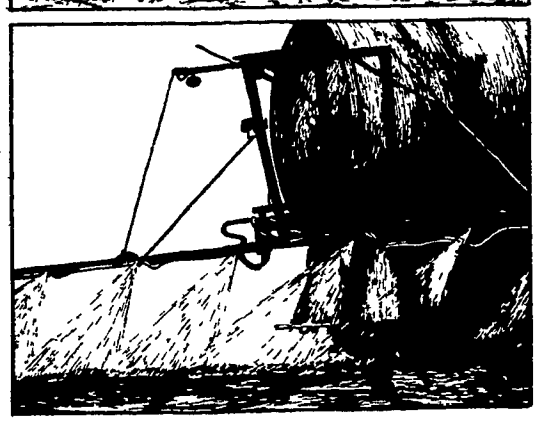
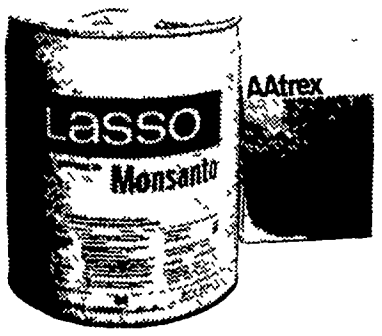
Apply your herbicide at the ideal time in corn:





Lasso
Plus atrazine.



Apply Lasso plus atrazine tank mix as you plant, or after planting, before corn or weeds come up with or without liquid fertilizers

Either way, you can plant as soon as your seedbed's ready—and still get the early grass and broadleaf control you need.

What's more, your herbicide goes on when the seedbed's in ideal condition for herbicide application

Neighbors and friends of Clarence Murry, Drumore, Pa., gathered on April 23 to plow some 90 acres for the farmer who is recovering from a heart attack. A total of 19 tractors were used on the farm. Lunch was served by the farmers' wives. The Murry family wish to thank all the neighbors who helped.

Legislator

problem more from an industrial and mine drainage viewpoint than from a farming one.

Expressing his concern that all the plans could not possibly be checked by the appointed deadline, Brandt explained to the farmers that with the staff of the SCS office in Lancaster County only about 110 conservation programs could be reviewed per year which would make reviewing plans for the 6000 farms in Lancaster County an impossible task.

Brandt's closing remarks on the conservation subject reflected his concern on the interpretation of the plans.

"I've written to Maurice Goddard of DER asking him to clearly define what the farmers will need to include in their plans and to put it in simple terms for more understanding."

"We hope that DER will accept our requests," he stated.

Sewer Assessments

Another pertinent problem which Brandt discussed at the meeting was the frontage assessment for sewers that were concerning many farmers near the suburban areas.

"Farmers shouldn't be required to underwrite sewers for towns," Brandt commented.

"Too often farmers have been asked to pay for sewers that they won't even hook on to."

Brandt explained that the Ag Committee is currently looking into the situation and has offered suggestions to the effect that farmers on whose land sewers will be passing, should be allowed to pay only a certain fee which could be reassessed if he decided to hook on the sewer.

The licensing of pesticide applicators was another topic which Brandt discussed. The Lancaster County legislator agreed that the licensing would certainly make changes necessary for the individual farmers but that the ecology minded consumer had become quite concerned with residues and over application of chemicals for food production. Brandt reassured the farmers that most of the stiff investigation would be going toward the actual production and dealerships where farmers would be submitting their plans for pesticide use.

PFA Helpful

Brandt praised the Pennsylvania Farmers Association stating that it has done a great deal of good in Harrisburg. "Because of the work the PFA has done," Brandt commented, "people are beginning to realize that farmers are an important part of our economy."

"In fact these days it seems like there are more problems in a quart of milk than in a pint of whiskey," Brandt admitted.

The legislator went on to explain that the Ag Committee is hopeful that within the future an Ag Advisory Council can be set up.

"We hope to draw people from the General Assembly, farming, agribusiness, the College of Agriculture, DER and the Secretary of Agriculture to do impact studies on the legislation that is forthcoming," Brandt explained.

Brandt expressed hopefulness that a council of this type would be more able to define the agricultural studies more fully.

In closing his remarks, Brandt told the audience that the Ag Committee is currently working on legislation to define and control farmer's cooperatives in an effort to prevent problems in that area in the future.

Farm Editors Elect Wanner

Lancaster Farming editor Dick Wanner was elected eastern regional vice-president of the Newspaper Farm Editors of America at that group's annual meeting in Washington , D.C., this week. Wanner was also named first place winner in the farm column category of the annual NFEA farm writing contest.

There were six categories in the contest and one overall winner. The farm editor of the year prize went to David Skoloda of the Milwaukee (Wisc.) Journal. The new NFEA president is Bernard Brenner, a UPI staffer assigned to Washington. He replaced William Blair, farm writer for the New York Times.

The NFEA is comprised of some 110 farm editors and writers from across the nation. They hold two meetings annually, one in mid-winter at Chicago, the other in the spring in the nation's capital.

About 30 members attended the Washington meeting this year, where they heard from such notables as Earl Butz, U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, and Tom Foley, chairman of the House Agricultural Committee.

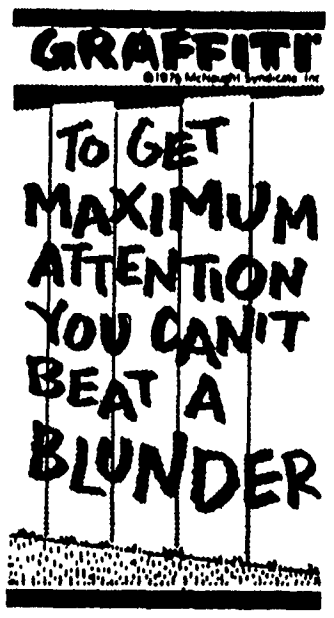
Placements of broiler chicks in the Commonwealth during the week ending April 23, 1975 were 1,546,000. The placements were 9 percent above the corresponding week a year earlier, and 32 percent above the previous week. Average placements during the past 10 weeks were 3 percent above a year earlier.

Settings for broiler chicks were 2,142,000 - 16 percent above the previous week and approximately the same as the comparable period a year earlier. The current 3-week total of eggs set is 1 percent above the same period a year ago.

Inshipments of broiler-type chicks during the past 10 weeks averaged zero compared with 3,000 a year ago. Outshipments averaged 254,000 during the past 10 weeks, 15 percent above a year earlier.

Placements in the 21 States were 60,763,000 - 2 percent above the previous week and 4 percent below the same week a year earlier. Average placements during the past 10 weeks were 6 percent below a year ago.

Settings were 71,398,000 - 2 percent below the previous week and 7 percent below a year earlier. The current 3-week total of eggs set is 6 percent below the comparable period a year ago.



USDA Slates June Estimates

Estimates of acreages planted by farmers for most crops and the resulting acres for harvest in 1975 will be released in late June rather than July as in previous years, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Statistical Reporting Service (SRS) announced this week.

SRS stated the change is being made to provide agricultural data users with acreage information sooner than in the past to aid them with marketing, policy, program, and other decisions associated with the current marketing season.

The planted acreage and acres for harvest estimates to be released at 3.00 p.m., EDT, June 30, will be based on surveys of growers conducted about June 1. The new June Acreage Report will provide State and national estimates of acreages planted and for harvest. The report will include acreages of feed grains, food grains, oilseeds, hay, and other crops which in previous years were included in the July Crop Production Report.

The The July Crop Production Report to be issued July 10, 1975 will cover only those crops for which July 1 production forecasts are made, including corn, wheat, barley, oats, rye, summer potatoes, flue-cured tobacco and selected fruits and nuts. A July 1 corn production forecast is being issued for the first time since 1970.

The Needlework Guild Is A Way To Help Others

by: Sally Bair
Farm Feature Writer

Helping those less fortunate is a way of life for many people in Lancaster County - they contribute their time, talents and money to help make the lives of others a little brighter.

On woman who not only gives generously herself but helps enlist other in giving is Mrs. Simeon Horton who lives on Donegal Street in Mount Joy.

Mrs. Horton is the new president of the Mount Joy Branch of the Needlework Guild of America, and as such she oversees the group's primary reason for being - its annual in-gathering of garments.

She speaks with quiet pride of the work which her organization does, and it was quite evident that she feels strongly about its worth to the community.

Mrs. Horton explained that the Needlework Guild of America, which has its national offices in Philadelphia, was organized to give those "who have" a chance, in a way everyone can afford, to help those who "have not."

The object of the Needlework Guild is to collect and distribute new, suitable garments to meet the needs of hospitals, homes and other charities.

Mrs. Horton stresses repeatedly "how little the Guild takes of anybody." "All you need to do to become a member," according to Mrs. Horton, "is to give two garments a year." In order to be a director of the Branch, a member needs to get 10 members each year, that is, to collect 22 garments. There are 40 directors in the Mount Joy Branch.

While the Guild insists that all garments be new, they accept household linens, - and anything from handerchiefs to overcoats in clothing items. Mrs. Horton says, "We accept anything - home sewn or otherwise. We take everything - even mittens. There is nothing that asks as little or does as much."

The garments are collected at the annual "in-gathering" in October. In Mount Joy, Mrs. Horton says, nearly 2,000 garments are received and distributed annually. Across the country, millions of garments are given each year.

Volunteers sort and distribute the garments immediately, and among the local beneficiaries of the Guild's work are the Salvation Army, church homes, hospitals, the Water Street Mission, and, of course, local families.

An investigating committee decides just how the distribution is to completed, and where families are involved, the Guild tries to get correct sizes, and to have something for everyone. There are some members who are "money members instead of garment members," Mrs. Horton explained, and it is this money that is used to supplement what is given and make it possible to meet specific needs of a family.

Mrs. Horton made it clear that all the work of gathering, sorting and distributing is done immediately. She said, "We're all very tired that night."

She said that the Girl Scouts in Mount Joy have the Guild's "in gathering" as one of their projects, and added, "We're very proud of their work." One of the things they make is bean bags, to be used in therapy.

The only other chapter in Lancaster County is one in Lancaster city. Mrs. Horton added that many local communities do contribute to the Lancaster Branch. In order to qualify to be a Branch of the Guild, 210 garments must be collected. Mrs. Horton said it would not be too difficult to start a branch by "just getting interested people together." She added, "I would be only too happy to help anyone get started."

The idea behind the Guild originated in England and was imported to this country. She said the first group met locally at the home of Mrs. Clarence Schock in 1920. Of the national organization, Mrs. Horton said, "For ninety years it has been serving, sharing and sympathizing with the needs of others. She said that the Guild nationally often responds in times of disaster. During Hurricane Agnes, they were able to assist the Red Cross in some of the flooded areas.

Mrs. Horton speaks very devotedly of her work with the Guild. She emphasizes that it exists solely to gather and distribute garments, and does not have meetings throughout the year.

At the time of this interview she was knitting lap afghans as part of her contribution to the in-gathering. She explained that hospital patients and guests in nursing homes appreciate the warmth they provide.

This is not Mrs. Horton's first time as president of the Branch. Twelve years ago she was also president, having served in that capacity for 17 years. She also served as state director at one time, "for about 12 years."

In addition to her work with the Guild, Mrs. Horton has many other interests. She is a member of the Men's Garden Club of Lancaster and St. Mark's United Methodist Church in Mount Joy. She is past matron of the 407 chapter of the Eastern Star, in Elizabethtown, and was formerly a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

It is obvious from her lovely home that Mrs. Horton enjoys being a homemaker. One of her hobbies is crewel embroidery and samples of her work grace the walls of her home. The Hortons' home was opened for the BPW Candlelight Tour several years ago, and the many antiques captured a lot of attention from tour-goers. The antiques, Mrs. Horton said, are mostly family pieces.

Her husband, Simeon is very well-known to Lancaster countians, having just retired in January as manager of the Mount Joy Farmers Cooperative. It was in 1932 that the Hortons moved to Mount Joy when he began working for the cooperative. They came from New Jersey, and according to Mrs. Horton discussed during the trip here for an interview whether they would want to move here. She said they decided that if they could live in a brick house they would move. Well, they found their brick house and have lived in Mount Joy ever since. Mrs. Horton says they really enjoy the Mount Joy area.

She is just learning the ways of having a retired man around the house, but she says, "I love having him home." She then proceeded to show the lovely wood work he has been doing for her in his retirement, and it's easy to see how they can share the joy of retirement.

The Hortons are natives of Towanda in Bradford County, where they both came from farm backgrounds.

Mrs. Horton had been a school teacher in Bradford County, where she taught eight grades in a country school. But, she confessed, with a smile, "I liked the smaller grades. I liked the little children." She taught school for three years.

One of the biggest interests of her life are the roses which she and her husband cultivate. They have 175 rose bushes, and take great pride in their beauty. She said they still have their first bush, "Crimson Glory." When asked if they try new varieties, she said, "We let someone else try it out first. Sometimes we've been disappointed in some of the new ones."

The lawn of their home is filled with beds of roses, and behind their home is a quiet lovely sanctuary which encourages birds and squirrels to visit. There is always food, and in the spring the Hortons put out bits of string for the birds to use in their nests.

There is also a vegetable garden, and Mrs. Horton says, "I do my own canning and freezing."

The Hortons also plan to do some traveling. Last fall they were able to visit Arizona and this summer they have the Canadian Rockies on their agenda. Mrs. Horton said they plan to travel by train, air and bus to reach their chosen destinations.

And so, as they begin retirement, the Hortons are planning to add even greater dimensions to the life they have shared together for 52 years.

And there will be no retirement for Mrs. Horton from the work of the Needlework Guild.

Mrs. Simeon Horton relaxes at home with the family's Irish Setter.

For Mrs. Horton, the Needlework Guild is one way to help others in need. Mrs. Horton works on a piece for an upcoming in gathering of garments.

Believe it or not . . . The gadget pictured above is a portion of the fan used to separate the chaff from the wheat in a threshing machine.

I truly believe that most of the staff here at Lancaster Farming were really stumped when it came to guessing what type of gadget Mr Elam Becker brought to our office this past Tuesday.

Mr Becker, who has been a long time resident of the Lititz area, wanted us to guess just what piece of farm machinery the gadget had been taken from. Although many good guesses were offered, Mr. Becker finally had to tell us that the piece of equipment was to regulate the fan on a threshing machine. The fan, he explained, was used years ago to separate the chaff from the wheat

The original threshing machine was made in 1875 - just one hundred years ago by the Wissler Foundry in Brunnerville. Mr. Becker explained that the machine belonged to his father and that as a young boy he had worked on the machine also Mr Becker saved the portion of the fan since it was clearly marked with the date and foundry name.

Which only goes to prove that no matter how much we think we've seen - we learn something new each day. We thank Mr. Becker for sharing a piece of true farm Americana with us!

Grange Proposes Resolutions

Lancaster Co. Pomona Grange 71 held their spring meeting at Oakryn as guests of Fulton Grange April 19, 8 p.m. The Master, Jesse Wood, presided at the business session when the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS. Pennsylvania Power & Light Company has petitioned the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission for a 4 per cent increase effective May 30, 1975, to raise approximately 21 million dollars and an 11 per cent increase to raise approximately 59 million dollars, or a total of 15 per cent of their total present revenue. And

WHEREAS, Just a few years ago the same company was urging everyone to install electric heat and electric appliances, with the story that as more customers were added to the line the cost of delivering electricity would decrease rather than increase. And

WHEREAS, The 15 per cent raise asked for is to be applied almost entirely to total electric home owners, farmers and other big users of electricity. And

WHEREAS, The last raise, plus the fuel adjustment, has already almost doubled the present cost of electricity. And

WHEREAS, The suggested use of the 80 million dollars is to be used to build atomic plants and pay larger dividends to the stockholders. And

WHEREAS, Lancaster County had entirely too many atomic plants in the environment for healthy living. Be it

RESOLVED, That Lancaster County Pomona Grange No. 71, meeting in regular session, petition the P.U.C. to deny this increase on the grounds that it is very unjust and unfair.

WHEREAS, The farm bill, as adopted by the House and Senate, is in danger of a Presidential veto. And

WHEREAS, The farm bill would not be inflationary, as the present market prices are well above the price levels contained in the bill. And

WHEREAS, The price increase in the bill will not encourage production beyond our present level, as we are almost at full production now. And

WHEREAS, Farm prices are now at a point that many farmers are dropping out of production. Be it

RESOLVED, That Lancaster Co. Pomona Grange No. 71, meeting in regular session, go on record asking our Legislators in Congress to override a Presidential veto, should that happen.

WHEREAS, Our State Senate is considering a bill that would declare the growing and harvesting of mushrooms a non-agricultural occupation. And

WHEREAS, The net result would be that the already troubled mushroom farmers would have to contribute to the unemployment compensation fund. And

WHEREAS, Mushrooms are a food and their production is definitely an agricultural occupation. Be it

RESOLVED, That Lancaster Co. Pomona Grange oppose any legislation that would change this status.

WHEREAS, Current Federal Communications Commission regulations restrict pay TV operations to major markets already served by existing free TV signals, providing viewers access to programming from all three major networks. Other regulations strictly limit what these operations can siphon from free TV and charge you for them. And

WHEREAS, Revised regulations are now being prepared by the F.C.C. which will relax some of the restrictions on syphoning, depriving millions of viewers the pleasure of watching their favorite programs without joining pay TV. Be it

RESOLVED, That Lancaster County Pomona Grange No. 71 petition the F.C.C. to maintain their present strict regulations on syphoning. And be it further

RESOLVED, That we oppose the legislation prepared by the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy which would forbid the F.C.C. from any regulatory control over syphoning.

Concerning a bill in the State Legislature to protect farmland from high front-footage assessments on sewer and water service, as in most cases he does not when he has housing development next to his property, he should not be compelled to pay frontage. Also water sewer authorities should not be permitted to put a lien on farms, which would render them unsaleable. They further stated that those authorities should have to pay damages for crossing farmers' properties. They took the position that land should be in agricultural use for seven years prior to a water or sewer line installation in order not to have to pay frontage.

Reports were given by several committee chairmen regarding entertaining the 1975 annual session of the Pa. State Grange in Lancaster Oct. 27-30. Chester - Delaware and Montgomery County Pomona Granges will be co-hosts for the 103rd annual session of the State Grange which will bring some 2500 Grangers for the meetings to be held in the Lincoln Jr. and the McCaskey Sr. High Schools.

The following members of Lancaster Co. Pomona Grange went on a tour April 8 to Harrisburg visiting Lancaster Co. members of the Legislature, touring the Capitol building and sitting in on Penn DOT hearings before the appropriations committee: Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Groff Sr., Mrs. Donald Trimble, Mrs. J. Marlin Kreider, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wood and LeRoy Welk of Fulton Grange; Richard Maule, Joseph G. Hess, Melvin C. Boyce and Miles Cochran of Colerain Grange; and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Eby and daughter of Salisbury Grange. The luncheon arranged by Rep. and Mrs. Sherman Hill and served in the office of Sen. Richard A. Snyder was attended by Sen. Snyder, Sen. Clarence Manbeck, Representatives Nicholas B. Moehlmann, Earl H. Smith, Kenneth E. Brandt and Harry Gring. Sen. Ralph W. Hess sent regrets due to being hospitalized.

Mrs. Russell Metzger, Lehigh Co., a member of the Pa. State Grange Women's Activities committee, urged the women to enter the National Grange sewing, needlework and patch-work pillow top contests and the Pa. State Grange crewel embroidery, historical sampler and baking contests. Mrs. J. Stanley Stauffer Jr., Pomona Women's Activities chairman, announced the local sewing contest and reported having a food stand at a farm sale.

The Legislative chairman, Norman Wood, urged everyone to vote for the State constitutional amendment on the May 20th Primary ballot which would require the Governor to nominate persons to fill vacancies within 90 days and the Senate to vote on the nominations within 25 legislative days after receiving it. State Grange Deputy Thomas Galbreath reported several members from Lancaster Co. attended the regional officer training meeting at Kutztown in March.

The Pomona Grange voted to purchase new regalia for the officers and a donation to the National Grange Leadership Fund.

The Lecturer, Mrs. Jesse Wood, presented the program when Bab Abbato, a representative from the Pa. Power & Light Co., spoke on their fuel adjustment and proposed rate increase.

Colerain Grange will host the Pomona picnic August 16.

THE HOME GAME
By VIRGINIA TRUAX

DELISH DISH — Here's a quickie dessert that tastes like a million. Drain a 30 ounce can of fruit cocktail, reserving syrup. Prepare a package of instant lemon pudding according to package directions, using syrup for part of required liquid. Add fruit cocktail and 1/3 cup shredded toasted coconut. Chill and serve.

OVEN PEEKERS — After a while you may notice that the lovely see-through glass door to your oven is so smoky from carbon spots that you aren't getting a clear view. To clean, thoroughly dampen a soft cloth, dip in baking soda and wash well. Presto – a sparkling glass.

LADIES, HAVE YOU HEARD?

By Doris Thomas, Extension Home Economist

Lint-Free Laundry

Lint is a natural by-product of all laundering, and it normally disappears either down the drain or collects on the lint filters that are built into most of today's washers and dryers. If clinging lint is a persistent tag-along on freshly-laundered clothes, you may need to re-check a few steps in your laundering procedures to determine the cause. There are five major reasons that lint clings to clothes: improper sorting of laundry, insufficient use of detergent, insufficient amount of water, overloading of washer and dryer and overdrying.

The first remedial step is to check the lint filters. To perform at peak efficiency, filters should be cleaned after each wash and dry load.

Next look at sorting procedures. Do you separate the lint "givers", such as towels and flannel pajamas from the lint "attractors", such as linens, corduroys, dark cottons, man-made fabrics and permanent press garments? By washing the loads separately there is less chance of lint transfer. Very heavy linters, such as chenille bedspreads, are best laundered alone. Turning lint holders inside out may help, too.

Detergents act to increase the wetting of fabric surfaces. If too little detergent is used, the wetting action is reduced and lint adheres more readily. Use the amount of detergent suggested on the detergent package for your type of machine, water hardness, load size and degree of soil.

Loading too many clothes into the washer inhibits the free movement of the clothes and the flushing away of the lint from fabric surfaces. Check the washer instruction booklet to determine recommended load size and water level.

Man-made fabrics that have been overdired magnetically draw lint due to static buildup. Correct timing and use of a fabric softener help to eliminate the problem.

Finally, there are permanent press and certain man-made fibers such as polyesters and acrylics, that have a tendency to pill. Pilling (formation of little balls on the surface) is caused by abrasion from normal wear that is characteristic of these fabrics. Lint adheres to the pilled surfaces, and it is extremely difficult to remove. It is best to brush the items carefully with a stiff bristled brush, or use an electric shaver on the pills.

Pyrex and Corning Ware

Casserole dishes, trays, pans and coffee and tea pots made of Pyrex or Corning Ware stay clean and sparkling by simple use of hot soap or detergent suds following by rinsing and drying. A big plus for these kitchen helpers is that they may be either hand washed or placed in an automatic dishwasher. If special problems should arise here are some tips which may help you to eliminate the problem or prevent it from happening.

Burned-on or scorched-on food. Soak immediately in hot soap or detergent suds. Loosen soil with a plastic mesh pad or wooden spoon. Then use a cleansing powder with a damp cloth or sponge, rinse and dry. To prevent burning, cook food on the lowest heat.

Sugary or starchy burned-on food. Use baking soda instead of cleansing powder on a damp cloth or sponge. Rinse and dry. For prevention, use the lowest heat when cooking.

Greasy burned-on food. Soak in hot water and detergent with ammonia, rinse and dry thoroughly. Again, use the lowest heat to prevent burning.

Gray marks from metal stirring utensils. Use a fine-polishing cleanser with a damp cloth, paper towel or sponge. In the future, stir foods with a plastic, wooden or coated utensil.

Discoloration. Fill cookware with a liquid chlorine bleach solution (1 part bleach to 8 parts water). Heat or let stand over night. Wash and rinse thoroughly and dry. Caution: do not mix ammonia cleansers with chlorine-type products, as the chemical reaction produces an irritating gas. To help prevent discoloring, wash the cookware thoroughly after each use.

Mineral deposits from water. Fill the cookware with a vinegar solution (1 part vinegar to 6 parts water) and boil about 20 minutes. Up to full-strength vinegar may be used, but do not mix vinegar with chlorine-type products due to the potentially dangerous gas that is given off. Once again, the only way to avoid the problem is to wash thoroughly with soap or detergent after each use, and don't let tea kettles boil dry.

Ida Risser

Now that I have a new dining room where our kitchen formerly was situated, there is a new or rather an old corner cupboard in it. My mother tells me the cupboard originally came from this farm but was moved to a summer kitchen on another farm over one hundred years ago. In cleaning it, I've discovered that it has the original brass key holes on it.

Joy! Joy! Now I can go to more sales and buy antique dishes to fill it. No, really I have almost enough now but there is always room for that little unusual bottle, that dainty cup and saucer or another toothpick holder. Recently I added a hat pin holder and two earthen jugs. They were billed as German wine jugs but in reality formerly held mineral "Quelle" or springs.

xxx

Do you do what I do? Cut our recipes and intend to try them and then not find the time. My poor cookbook is bulging with untried ones. Every now and then I do come across a delicious cake which becomes a family favorite.

The other week a Farm Women Society was kind enough to give me their Dinner Bell cookbook and now I have more recipes to try. And I'm determined to do just that.

As we butchered a beef last week, we had one more tongue to cure. There were several frozen and waiting to be cured and smoked.

The little brick smokehouse that served us so well so long has been turned into a toolhouse for my garden - as it is setting in the middle of it. So we tried patent smoke this time but are rather apprehensive as we've always enjoyed that green apple wood smell.

Berks Dairy Princess Contest Slated June 16-21

The Berks County Dairy Princess Committee has announced that they are seeking young women interested in entering the Princess contest for 1975.

Qualifications for the contest included that the girl must be the daughter of a dairy farmer, farm manager of dairy herdsman or be the owner of a dairy animal prior to May 1, 1975.

She must have completed her Junior year in high school and not reached 21 by September 1, 1975. She must also be single and have either her parent's or guardian's consent.

The contest will be held in conjunction with Dairy week June 16-21 at the Berkshire Mall. Interested youths should contact Mrs. Donald Meyers, Kempton R2; Mrs. Raymond Seidel, Richland; Mrs. Ralph Sanner, Kutztown R3; Miss Phoebe Ruth Fleetwood R2; Miss Susan Seidel, Richland. The deadline for entering is May 25, 1975.

Heritage Antiques Show Slated

The traditional German craft of Scherenschnitte or scissor cutting will be one of the feature demonstrations of the Lancaster Heritage Antique Show scheduled for May 9, 10 and 11 at the Farm and Home Center on Arcadia Road, according to Gay B. Cox, show co-chairman.

According to Mrs. Cox, Claudia Hopf, local Scherenschnitte artist, will be on hand throughout the first day of the show to demonstrate the folk art form. The art of producing pictures from cut paper which thrived in pre-19th century Europe and Pennsylvania is experiencing a rebirth of popularity through the work of craftsmen like Mrs. Hopf.

Mrs. Hopf is well known in the Lancaster area for her artistic talent. She is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati and has done graduate work with the Art Academy of Cincinnati. She teaches craft courses at the Landis Valley Museum.

Demonstrations and exhibits during the show, which is in its fourth year, will be free of charge and will be held at the show itself.

Tickets to the Heritage Show Lecturers, which will be held during the show at the Landis Valley Farm Museum, will cost three dollars and be available on a reservation basis.

The annual antique event is sponsored by the Lancaster County Farm and Home Foundation in cooperation with the Lancaster Historical Society. During the three-day show, 44 of the finest antique dealers in the eastern part of the country will be displaying and selling antiques in Lancaster.

Preschooler Meeting

Television is probably the most popular babysitter for children in today's family - and it's free. Even the youngest member of the family can easily summon entertainment from the "tube" with a flick of a switch.

Television has had a positive influence on children of this generation, but because it is so readily available, Trudy Dougherty, Extension home economist, Chester County, points out that it's important you select the programs your child watches.

To help you select programs that will be helpful and be an effective teaching tool, a workshop program on television guidelines for children is scheduled as part of a program on "You and Your Preschooler".

"You and Your Preschooler", a program designed for parents of preschool children, has been planned. The program will be held at Thorndale Methodist Church, 3501 Lincoln Highway (Business Rt. 30), Thorndale, Tuesday, April 29 from 7:30 - 9:30 P.M. and Wednesday, April 30 from 9:30 A.M. to 12 Noon. Both mothers and fathers are urged to attend.

Participants will be able to choose two of four workshops pertaining to preschoolers and will be given an opportunity to "learn by doing" in the various workshops. In addition, educational displays relating to the topics will be on view and handout material will be available.

The program is open to all Chester County parents of preschoolers. To register, call the Chester County Cooperative Extension Office, 235 W. Market St., West Chester, 696-3500.

Drinking Water Surveyed in State

Secretary of Environmental Resources Maurice K. Goddard said recently the Department has been advised of preliminary results of a nationwide survey of organic chemicals in public drinking water supplies conducted by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Three Pennsylvania water supplies - City of Philadelphia, Western Pennsylvania Water Company (serving suburban Pittsburgh) and Strasburg, Lancaster County - were included in the survey.

The two city water supplies use major rivers as their sources of raw water while Strasburg utilizes ground water sources.

Although DER has not completed its analysis of the survey data for the Philadelphia water system, it appears the level of organics in it is comparable to that in similar water supply systems with the exception of one organic chemical, bis-2-chloroethyl ether, which is a suspected carcinogen.

Goddard said DER staff have been assigned to the Philadelphia water supply to work with the city in determining the origin of this chemical compound in the drinking water source.

He stressed that the City already has implemented steps for removal of the chemical with powdered carbon at its treatment plant and pointed out that the City of Philadelphia water supply complies with all current and proposed Federal drinking water standards.

Although DER is concerned about the level of bis-2-chloroethyl ether in the water supply, Goddard said, it considers the Philadelphia water supply safe to drink and strongly urges that users not turn to alternate water supplies which may be less safe.

The survey results also showed that the Strasburg drinking water supply was not affected by organic chemicals and the chemicals found in the Western Pennsylvania Water Company supply were comparable to those found during the intensive survey conducted last winter when problems were experienced in the service area. The levels were considered average compared to those found in other similar supplies across the Nation.

Soybean Movie Wins Award

A film produced by the American Soybean Association (ASA) has won the top award in the agricultural category of the CINE film judging competition for 1974.

Titled "The Gold That Grows," the 20-minute, 16 mm color film was created, filmed and produced by Russ Wasendorf, ASA's advertising and production manager.

The film was one of 700 entered in the CINE (Council on International Non-theatrical Events) competition in 30 categories, and it was one of only two films in the agricultural category to receive the top rating, a Golden Eagle award.

Wasendorf said the CINE awards are regarded as the "Academy Awards" of non-theatrical films. Winning a CINE Golden Eagle makes "The Gold That Grows" eligible to enter over 100 foreign film festivals, he added.

"The Gold That Grows," the first film ever produced by ASA, is a fast-moving international documentary of soybean products and their uses. It stresses the importance of overseas markets and shows how they are developed for the benefit of U.S. farmers.

Featuring foreign industry leaders and ASA overseas staff members, the film depicts soybean market promotion activities in Europe, East Asia and Latin America.

Wasendorf said in-house production of the film by a staff member enabled ASA to produce the film for less than half of what a similar flim would normally cost.

Any group interested in showing the film may obtain a copy from the ASA office in Hudson, he said, adding that "The Gold That Grows" has already been shown by numerous farm organizations and on nine television stations.

ASA will receive its award certificate Nov. 19 during CINE's annual awards presentation in Washington, D. C.

Wasendorf, a graduate of the University of Northern Iowa in Cedar Falls, previously worked with an independent filmmaker in New Mexico filming documentaries of the Pueblo Indians. While in college he produced, filmed and directed a film which was subsequently purchased for use by the American Medical Association.

Fulton Grange Meets

Fulton Grange 66 met March 24, with Master Donald Trimble presiding. The Grange voted to send a resolution opposing the lowering of the drinking age. It was decided to sponsor Boy Scout Troop 130 and to allow them to meet in the Grange Hall. First and Second Degrees were presented.

The Third and Fourth Degrees were presented at the April 14 meeting. New members are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Trimble, Timothy Hanks, and Robert Hershberger.

The next meeting, April 28, is Youth Night when the youth will fill the chairs. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Sterner, from State Grange, will present slides and speak on Pennsylvania State Grange Youth in Action. The sewing contest entries will be judged and modeled and a cake walk will be held to raise money for the State Grange Youth program "Grange Youth Care".

ASCS Disaster Rules Explained

Under the disaster provisions of ASCS Feed Grain and Wheat Programs, county ASCS personnel must inspect and appraise the damage done to the crop prior to the awarding of payments. "There were some difficulties last year in many areas of the country when farmers plowed under their damaged crops before they notified the county ASCS office," Lancaster County ASCS chairman, B. Snavely Garber, said. "When the inspector got to the farm, all he could see was plowed fields, not damaged crops."

Disaster payments are made for two major reasons: prevented planting and low yields caused by natural disasters.

"For farms eligible for prevented planting payment, the payment will be computed on the basis of the farm's payment yield times the alloted acreage on which planting is prevented," Garber said.

"To be eligible for an abnormally low yield payment, the total actual production for a crop must be less than the farm acreage allotment for that crop (or planted acres, if smaller) times the disaster program yield. The payment for the farm will be computed on a quantity equal to the difference between the payment yeild times the farm allotment (or planted acres, if smaller) and the total actual production. Flood, drought, wind, insects, disease, and other natural disasters determine eligibility under this program."

For additional information on the provisions of the 1975 farm programs, contact the ASCS office in your county.

Learn What You Can Do Without

by Robert Rodale

What do you suppose you'd do if your trashman knocked on your kitchen door next week and informed you that he's sorry, but he didn't think he'd be back next week - or ever?

Your first reaction would probably be disbelief, after which you'd probably start paging through the telephone book in search of a replacement. Only after you couldn't find a substitute would sheer panic set in as you thought of the piles of trash and garbage your family accumulates every week.

It's probably time that we all sat down to consider what our lives would be like if we didn't have some of those services we now look upon as essential to our well-being. And one of the most essential services is trash and garbage collection.

Surprising as it seems, garbage collection is one thing that many households can do without. Some people have already tried operating no-garbage homes and have found that they could actually survive without having to haul out bags of waste products two or three times a week.

Wayne H. Davis, a professor of zoology at the University of Kentucky at Lexington has worked out a household economy that wastes nothing. Newspapers, cans and jars go to local recycling centers. Magazines go to hospital waiting rooms. And garbage is buried in the garden, where it decomposes quickly, providing organic material and nutrients to the soil. Paper and plastic scraps are burned in a fireplace. The ashes are thrown in a flower garden.

Dr. Davis says that there are disadvantages to his system. It's "extra work. The extra bags to separate garbage, trash, cans and jars are a nuisance." But, he adds: "We consider our effort a success and think that others interested in organic living might want to try it. I doubt if we will ever go back to garbage cans and collection service."

Many may fell that Dr. Davis is advocating an extreme program. However, a recent survey by students and professor William L. Rathje of the University of Arizona proved that, despite talk of rising prices and flagging economy, residents of Tucson wasted approximately 10 percent of all food that came into their homes.

Under Dr. Rathje's direction, students analyzed the contents of the garbage cans of 380 residents. In his attempts to find a relationship between material culture and behavior, Dr. Rathje found that the vast majority of people questioned didn't realize just how much food they were wasting.

If you cut out all food waste and recycled as much as possible, you would cut your contribution to the solid waste-disposal problem significantly. But that should be just a start. Think about some other essential services that you might lose, along with ways that you could protect yourself against that eventuality.

The flushless, recycling toilet is the ultimate in turning wastes into useful products. Surprisingly, several types are already being manufactured.

The Clivus-Multrum is the best no-water toilet now made. Perfectly sanitary, safe and odorless, that Swedish device needs no water or energy, no chemicals, no liquid effluents, no plumbing, no cleaning and has no moving parts. Compare that to the modern toilet, which uses five gallons of water per flush and results in a tremendous drain on our fresh water resources - not to mention the waste of time involved at a sewage plant separating the wastes from all that water.

Information on the flushless toilet can be obtained from Clivus Multrum USA, Inc., 14A Eliot Street, Cambridge, Mass. 02138.

The list of essential services that might be cut off, either short-or long-term, could go on and on.

What if your oil man suddenly announced that he was halting service to you? You'd probably find yourself switching to a wood stove. Many people aren't waiting. They're putting in auxiliary stoves now before the crunch comes.

Our food supply could be severely affected from one growing season to the next simply by the weather. You'd do well to lay in a supply of home-canned fruits and vegetables to see you through any stoppage of that essential service.

A garden is an absolute must for anyone looking for that extra measure of protection. Vegetables raised in your own backyard give you that added bit of self-sufficiency that will be needed should shortages come. Garbage and yard wastes - if composted - combine to make excellent fertilizer.

I don't believe Armageddon is just around the corner. But we should start thinking seriously about a whole new way of life without some of the things we now consider essential.

1975 ASCS Farm Program Explained

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) issued a complete recap of previously announced farm program provisions.

B. Snavely Garber, Chairman of Lancaster County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee said, "While most area farmers are probably aware of major program provisions, we want to assure that all farmers understand the various rates and rules as they progress with field work and planting. A few of the provisions are different from last year, but the basic programs, in effect for 1974, remain virtually unchanged.

"Even though the Nation's farmers are virtually free to plant what they feel the market prices indicate will be needed, every farmer certainly needs to know where he stands with regard to Federal farm programs," Garber said.

The highlights of the 1975 programs include: (1) no land set-aside or conserving base requirement; (2) no limit on the amount of wheat or feed grain acreage a farmer can plant; (3) disaster payments for prevented planting or abnormally low yields; (4) deficiency payments if market prices fall below target prices; (5) acreage allotments used only to determine the maximun acreage eligible for disaster or target price payment; (6) crop substitution to protect allotment history; and (7) a $20,000 limitation on the amount of payments a person can receive under all programs combined.

Specific provisions for the 1975 wheat and feed grain programs include: - a national feed grain allotment of 89 million acres and a Lancaster County feed grain allotment of 60,530 acres.

- a national wheat allotment of 53.5 million acres and a county wheat allotment of 24,597 acres.

- per-bushel target prices of $2.05 for wheat; $1.38 for corn; $1.13 for barley, and $1.31 for sorghum;

- per-bushel loan rates of $1.37 for wheat; $1.10 for corn; $.90 for barley, and $1.05 for sorghum;

- per-bushel disaster payments (equal to one-third the target price) of $.68 for wheat; $.46 for corn; $.38 for barley, and $.44 for sorghum.

Cattle On Feed Down

Pennsylvania cattle feeders had 74,000 cattle and calves on feed for the slaughter market on April 1, 1975, according to the Crop Reporting Service. This was five percent or 4,000 head fewer than were on feed a year earlier.

Marketings of fed cattle during the January-March quarter at 26,000 were four percent or 1,000 head fewer than were marketed during the same period in 1974. There were 19,000 head placed on feed during the quarter, ten percent or 2,000 head fewer than were placed during the same period in 1974. Expected marketings of fed cattle, if realized, during the April-June quarter at 34,000 would be 11 percent or 4,000 head fewer than were marketed during the same period in 1974.

Cattle and calves on feed April 1 for slaughter market totaled 8,452,000 head in the 23 major feeding states, a decrease of 31 percent or 3,858,000 head less than a year earlier. The current 23 state number on feed is the lowest for April 1 since 1963. Placements of cattle and calves on feed during the January-March quarter totaled 4,712,000 head, down 19 percent from placements during the comparable period of 1974.

Marketing of fed cattle for slaughter during the January-March quarter totaled 5,487,000 head, down 9 percent from the same quarter in 1974 and 17 percent lower than 1973.

Sow-15 Cubes are the high-energy complete feed for sows, gilts and boars. Here's a thrifty, top of the line feed for sows, gilts and boars during the reproductive period of their lives

The 15% protein level is Master Mix research tested for ideal body maintenance. And, it's balanced with a carefully-formulated blend of all essential vitamins and minerals Sow-15 Cubes are a complete all-in-one feed

With Sow-15 Cubes, you can feed almost anywhere The cubes are bite-size and hard enough to nearly eliminate wastage from crumbling or dusting. Intake tends to equalize itself when feeding a group of animals, because they must chew the cubes and all will eat at nearly the same weight.

No need for feeding equipment, either. Sow-15 Cubes may be sprinkled on the ground, on concrete, or any solid surface. They're great for group feeding of any age or stage of breeding animal.

Try Sow-15 Cubes! We're betting $10.00 a ton that you and your sows will both be satisfied.

System Developed for Milking Waste

Dairy farmers with sizable herds can now have a dependable system for disposing of the large amounts of water used in cleaning milking equipment and facilities. The system uses year-around irrigation or storage of waste water for irrigation as needed - together with separate storage of solid manure.

The model system was developed for a 150-cow milking center at The Pennsylvania State University. The flush water and manure are discharged by gravity to a separation bed where the solids are retained. The liquid is released through a screen to a float-controlled high pressure pump for irrigation or to a storage pond.

This waste water irrigation and manure storage system was developed by faculty members with the Agricultural Experiment Station at Penn State. Involved in the project were H. D. Bartlett and M. D. Shaw of agricultural engineering, A. E. Branding of dairy science, and L. F. Marriott of agronomy.

An area of 40 by 50 feet was used to provide 180 days storage for manure solids in the separation bed. The bed was built in two sections, each providing 90 days storage. After allowing a few days for the manure to drain, it was removed from one section with a front end loader, while solids were collected in the other bed.

There were no fly or odor problems associated with daily operation of the separation bed. The odor was quite strong during the cleaning operation, but was not as severe as with liquid manure pits. Within a few hours after spreading the manure had the aroma and consistency of humus.

Galvanized hardware cloth was used as a screen to prevent solids, especially floating material, from getting into the irrigation system. The screen was back flushed with a time operated pump to prevent clogging. No freezing problem were encountered with the screen and backflush system when the temperature dropped to 15 degrees F.

The waste water was carried underground to three sprinkler outlets through 2-inch steel pipe. The sprinkler coverage, 100 feet in diameter, was about one-sixth acre at each location, giving an application of 3 inches of effluent per week. The irrigated area was planted in permanent pasture.

No adverse effects were noted in the irrigation system except in extremely wet weather, when there was some water standing temporarily in depressions. Although the area was sloping, there was no noticeable runoff.

Only slight problems with the pump or sprinklers have occurred in the two years of continuous use, the Penn Staters reported. Ice build-up on sprinkler pivots in below freezing weather was a problem for short periods.

Some effluent was held in a small pond for several months to evaluate odors and pumping qualities after extended storage. Such a facility would avoid the need to irrigate in freezing weather or at other unsuitable times.

No problems were encountered with pumping the waste water effluent after storage. However, accumulation of solids could be expected with such a system and would require agitation to get the solids into suspension. There was some odor from the pond during the summer months but it was not serious.

Farm Market To Be Opened At Harrisburg

The Farm Show parking lot in Harrisburg will become an open air farmers' market this summer, Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Jim McHale has announced.

He said farmers from counties in the capital city area will bring fresh fruit and vegetables to the Farm Show lot and sell from truck tailgates. The market is expected to get underway during July when sweet corn begins ripening.

"It won't be a fancy set-up, but it will be putting idle ground to work for the benefit of farmers and consumers," McHale said. "This is a pilot project which we hope will catch on in other areas of the state."

He said the markets could be an "economic shot in the arm" for farmers and would mean farm-fresh food for consumers.

The market will be operated by the Farm Show Open Air Market Association, an organization composed of interested farmers from Cumberland, Dauphin, Lancaster, Mifflin, Montour, Northumberland, Perry, Schuykill, Snyder, Union, and York Counties. Under association rules and regulations, only bona fide farmers will be permitted to sell at the market.

Serving on a rules and regulations committee are these area farmers: Donald L. Dobbs, Newport RD3; Harold R. Frey, Lebanon RD 5; Betty J. Mitchell, Lewistown RD 1; John Musser, Carlisle RD 1; Dan Pakyz, Harrisburg; John D. Tallman, Dauphin RD 1; Jacob C. Wise, York Haven RD 1; Dale Whitenight, Danville RD 6; and Leon Zimmerman, Pitman RD 1.

The committee said association members will be required to pay an initiation fee as well as a weekly space fee. Proceeds from the fees will be used to promote the market.

Bank Notes

Stockholders of National Central Financial Corporation, parent company of National Central Bank, re-elected 17 members to the Board of Directors at the corporation's annual meeting here Tuesday morning.

According to National Central Board Chairman John C. Tuten, the re-election of baord members was the only item of business conducted at the meeting, which was held at the company's Administrative Services Center in Lancaster and attended by 175 stockholders.

Re-elected to the National Central board during the meeting were: Heath L. Allen, Gable L. Arnold, Royal E. Cleveland, Frederic Cox, W. Douglas Darmstaetter, John Bowman Delaney, Robert Y. Garrett, Jr, Max S. Grumbacher, Henry F. Huth, M. O. Lee, Lewis E. Lehrman, William H. Mann, Wilson D. McElhinny, H. Sturgis Potter, Spurgeon E. Rohrbaugh, Arthur B. Sinkler, Horace E. Smith, Wayne B. Titus, and John C. Tuten.

At a reorganization meeting of the board of directors, immediately following the stockholders meeting, Wilson D, McElhinny was elected president and chief executive officer of the corporation and John C. Tuten was re-elected chairman of the board.

Mr. Tuten had served as chief executive officer of National Central Bank since its formation in 1970 and also chief executive of the corporation since its creation in 1972.

The First National Bank of Strasburg reported a 12.9 percent increase in net income for the first quarter of 1975. Net income for the Bank during the first three months was $159,072 or 64 cents per share, up from $140,910 or 56 cents per share during the comparable period last year.

Donald H. Hoffecker, executive vice president, stated that the total assets of the Bank are up 9.8 percent over last year. Assets totaled $60,236,253 on March 31, 1975 compared to $54,868,846 for the comparable date last year. Hoffecker also stated that deposits increased 7.2 percent totaling $51,348,755 compared to the $47,916,807 deposit total at the end of 1974's first quarter.

On the Hill

BY REP. KENT SHELHAMER
Chairman, Agriculture Committee
Pennsylvania House of Representatives

The House in Harrisburg will soon be taking action on several bills recently released by the House Agriculture Committee.

House Bill 217 has been designed to exempt the farmer from paying assessments for sewer or water lines that are installed in a right of way fronting his land, provided he does not use the services provided by the installation.

There have been cases in the recent past where farmers have had to pay considerable assessment fees - on a front footage basis - for sewer or water lines which were laid along their property lines as a means of extending services to nearby suburban developments.

Since the farmers did not avail themselves to the municipal services, they felt the assessments were unfair and exorbitant. House Bill 217 will remedy that situation.

Of course, in the event the land, or a portion of it is developed, the owner or subsequent owner would be liable for the assessment. We have inserted an amendment which would give the municipality the right to place a lien against the property for an amount equal to that which would have been due and payable if the owner were liable for the payment.

The lien would be interest free, and will not have priority over any judgement or mortgage placed against the land, and it cannot be executed unless the owner avails himself of the municipal services. If he uses the services he will be liable for the amount of land utilizing the services.

Placing the lien of the land insures that the municipality will get paid for its installation services in the event the land is developed. The lien would be made known to a potential buyer when the title is searched, and it can be removed only when the buyer pays the municipality for the services.

The members of the Agriculture Committee, as well as many farmers whom I have talked with, agree that the bill is fair, and I expect it will receive bipartisan support when we vote on it.

We are also amending a 38-year old act dealing with the licensing and regulation of farm produce dealers.

As you know, there is a Federal law that regulates interstate sales of produce, and we are basically revising our law to protect those who sell their produce within the state, and many provisions in it are parallel to those contained in the Federal act.

Shipments or purchases of farm produce having a gross value of more than $500 would be covered by the new law. Of course, agricultural cooperatives which market farm produce for their members only, or purchases covered by a written contract would be exempt.

Dealers will be required to pay $25.00 for their licenses, which will be renewed annually. A license could be revoked if the dealer has rejected, dumped, or destroyed any shipment of farm produce without just cause, and could only be renewed by the dealer's posting of a bond.

Under the provisions of House Bill 612, the dealer would no longer have up to 48 hours to pay the producer; payment in full would have to be made upon acceptance of the farm produce, and the dealer will have to keep records of transactions for a reasonable amount of time.

As you can see, there are no drastic revisions to the present law, but we have added what I feel are some necessary safeguards to protect the producer who deals in intrastate commerce.

We will soon be resuming our Agriculture Committee hearings into the farm cooperative system in Pennsylvania, and we have scheduled a two-day session in Mercer County, at which time I expect we will receive even further input on the situation, as we attempt to determine what legislation might be needed to insure that the co-op system and its farmer stockholders can operate profitably in the uncertain period ahead.

Soil Surveys Can Help Home Buyers

How homebuyers can use soil surveys to avoid later regrets is explained in a new publication released by the USDA, Soil Conservation Service.

State Conservationist Benny Martin said the new booklet explains how a soil survey can pinpoint areas subject to flooding, septic tank failure, seasonal wetness, and erosion hazards.

By checking a homesite on a soil map, prospective homebuyers can find out what soil hazards, if any, they risk by buying the house, Martin added.

The state conservationist said there are over 300 different soils indentified in Pennsylvania, and many of them cause serious problems when used for house lots. These soils have different properties which must be considered in planning their use for homes, agriculture, and urban facilities.

Martin said that over 85 percent of the land in the state has been soil surveyed and the information is available at the local offices of the SCS.

Single copies of the newly released booklet, "Homebuyers ... Soil Surveys Can Help You," can be obtained at all offices of the SCS. Additional copies are available from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., at 25 cents a copy.

If you could see the amino acids in a hog ration
...YOU'D FEED PURINA

Baby Pig Chow® is amino acid balanced to furnish the nutritional requirements at this critical age.

The beads represent the amino acids that are so essential to a baby pig You can't see the amino acids in a ration, but if you could, it would be very apparent how much variance there is in amino acid balance between different brands of feed. The shortage of any essential amino acid can greatly reduce performance.

The baby pig requires an amino acid balance totally different than it will when it is older As the sow's milk supply begins to dwindle, the baby pig's nutritional requirement is increasing rapidly. The fact that the small pig's tiny stomach can only hold a small amount of feed further complicates the situation.

Intensive research at the Purina Research farm determined the baby pig's amino acid requirements The information gathered from the research has been used to formulate Baby Pig Chow with its special fortification and amino acid balance.

Baby Pig Chow even smells and tastes like sows' milk to entice the pig to eat Open a bag of Baby Pig Chow in your farrowing house and place the open end near one of the pens. Let the pigs show you how much they like it.

Fungicide Wipes Out Potato Fusarium Rot

Fusarium rot, often the number one cause of losses to growers and planters of seed potatoes, conceivably might be a thing of the past if tubers or precut seed pieces are protected with experimental fungicides tested in Maine and North Carolina.

Two-to-threefold greater yields of potatoes resulted in tests with seed treated with either of two experimental fingicides, as compared to untreated check lots. Plant pathologists Simeon S. Leach of USDA's Agricultrual Research Service and Lowell W. Nielsen of the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station at Raleigh, obtained these results on Pungo seed potatoes treated with 2-(4-thiazolyl)-benzimidazole and with methyl-1-(butylcarbamonyl)-2-benzimidazolecarbamate. These experimental materials must be registered with the Environmental Protection Agency by the manufacturers before they may be used on seed potatoes.

The treatments resulted in a better stand - more vigorous growth, fewer small plants, and correspondingly greater yields than from untreated seed. Pilot test yields for the control polt totaled 67 pounds per 100 feet of plot, while potatoes treated with the second fungicide yielded 170 pounds per 100 feet of plot.

These yields demonstrate a nearly 100 percent control of the disease organisms in storage, shipment, and preplanting periods as well as in the pre-emergence interval for the planted seed.

Dr. Leach obtained additional evidence of the effectiveness of the treatments in contamination studies with 120 barrels of Russett Burbank potatoes, at Orono. After 5 months in storage, fewer than 0.5 percent of the treated tubers became infected, as compared with 4 percent of an untreated check lot. The control lot represents 375 barrels, or a $2,225 loss, from a 15,000-barrel commercial storage facility.

In the Maine and North Carolina experiments, Dr. Leach and Dr. Nielsen exposed the potatoes to conditions more severe than most growers usually experience. Potatoes with artificially-induced infections were used in the tests. Moreover, seed storage conditions in Maine and unusually cool, spring growing conditions in North Carolina favored development of fusarium rot. Accordingly, the good results obtained with the fungicides are all the more striking.

Both intact tubers and cut seed pieces were treated with the fungicides. The experimental compounds were diluted and applied at the same rate. They were diluted to a concentration of 2 pounds of fungicide per 100 gallons of water. They were then applied by an aerosol fogger at a rate of 1 gallon of diluted solution per 2,000 pounds of potatoes as the tubers passed over a roller table.

Dr. Leach employed conventional commercial management practices to maintain desirable environmental storage conditions for the intact tubers. Similar storage practices were used for the precut seed pieces, plus use of conventional wound healing procedures. Precut seed produced somewhat higher yields than did treated freshcut seed in North Carolina when wet and cold soil conditions prevailed at planting and the early part of the growing season. In Maine, however, with excellent growing conditions at planting and through the early states of growth, treated freshcut seed produced higher yields.

In addition to the fungicide experiments, decontamination was tested by washing and brushing potatoes before shipment. Yields in North Carolina showed a slight advantage in favor of washing, but Maine yields indicated no advantage for washing or brushing.

The Maine Life Science and Agricultural Experiment Station cooperated in this research.

Wasp Kills Soybean Pests In Maryland

Foreign Wasp vs. Bean Beetle

After the first sucessful year of watching Pediobius foveolatus, a beneficial wasp from India, spreading through Maryland's soybean fields, entomologist Allen L. Steinhauer can see lower insecticide costs for growers this year.

Dr. Steinhauer, of the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station, is project leader for a 3-year study on alternative controls for Mexican bean beetles under an ARS cooperative agreement.

The Mexican bean beetle is a primary pest of soybeans in the Middle Atlantic states. Both the pest and the price of soybeans have been on a steady rise for 3 years, giving farmers more reason to use insecticides: protection of a more valuable crop. Last year the cost of chemical controls averaged over $5 an acre.

Enter P. foveolatus. In the summer of 1973, Dr. Steinhauer released the parasitic wasps at six diverse sites. Within several weeks they were destroying bean beetle larvae in soybean fields as far as 40 miles from the dispersal sites. In the spring of 1974, the scientists increased the release sites to an average of 34 in each of 12 Maryland counties. From 200 to 1,000 wasps were freed from each site, with additional releases made later. For the summer of 1974, licenced aircraft insecticide applicators reported a drop in soybean field spraying of from 1-3 to ½ from 1973 levels. By September the wasps had parasitized an average of 83.3 percent of Mexican bean beetle larvae sampled in all counties.

The resulting declined in bean beetle numbers has been dramatic enough for Dr. Steinhauer to discuss possible large-scale control efforts.

"A routine of releasing the parasitic wasps each May when the beetle larvae are in sufficient numbers could potentially control the beetles," says Dr. Steinhauer.

The program being designed in Maryland is for innoculative releases, meaning that the parasite must be rereleased each year since it does not overwinter in Maryland.

"However, it is probably adaptable to any soybean growing area in the United States," says Dr. Steinhauer, "and an effective control program could probably be worked out by State agencies."

The soybean plant is ideal for biological controls. It can tolerate 30 percent defoliation before flowering, and an additional 10 percent after its pods form, without a loss in bean yield. Growers can therefore afford to postpone insecticide until this 40 percent threshold is reached. In the meantime, the tiny beetle-hunting wasp can be at work against the beetle.

Smaller than a gnat, P. foveolatus was discovered by entomologist George W. Angalet of USDA's Agricultural Research Service during a search in India for insects beneficial to man. The non-stinging wasps were then imported into the United States under an ARS-sponsored Public Law 480 program at Bangalore, India. They were subsequently studied by ARS entomologists at Moorestown, N.J., and declared non-injurious to any other beneficial insect.

ARS tests in New Jersey in the 1960's proved the little wasp an effective weapon in ambushing the Mexican beetle. From 80 tp 90 percent of the bean beetle populations at test sites were destroyed by P. foveolatus. ARS then provided Dr. Steinhauer with 6,754 additional wasps from stock obtained from the Commonwealth Institute of Biological Control, Bangalore, India.

Here is how Dr. Steinhauer's method of distributing the wasp works. First, lima beans are planted in the greenhouse. When the plants have abundant foliage, large numbers of Mexican bean beetles are released. The beetles become established, reproduce, and their larvae feed on the underside of the bean leaves. Next, several thousand of the parasitic wasps are released into the greenhouse. The female wasps deposit from 10 to 20 eggs in each beetle larva.

Then the lima bean plants are lifted, and transplanted to soybean fields. Baby wasps now use the beetle larvae as food, develop into adults, and emerge to find other beetle larvae on the soybean plants in the fields.

Another tested dispersal plan, employing the same principle, involved county extension agents who supervised nurse crops of snap beans situated at the edge of a soybean field.

Since the project started, Maryland researchers have sent the parasitic wasps to Florida, South Carolina, Virginia and Delaware where separate studies have begun.

In Delaware, experiment station entomologists released the parasitic wasps at 44 site.

The Romans called the ring finger the "medical finger" because they thought a nerve ran directly from it to the heart. With this belief at hand they used the fourth finger to stir medicines.

Maryland Researchers Warn of Soybean Pest

Throughout much of the Southeast, soybean cyst nematodes are regarded as a major barrier to 50-bushel-per-acre yield goals for soybean growers. And the tiny soil-dwelling eelworm came in for considerable attention last month during the second annual Southern Soybean Disease Workers Council, held March 19-21 in Atlanta, Ga.

Although it had spread as far north as Virginia by 1972, the nematode has not yet been found in the Old Line State, according to Dr. Leslie O. Weaver, Extension plant pathologist at the University of Maryland in College Park. But it has been reported on the lower end of the Delmarva peninsula.

He noted that both plant pathologists at the University and officials of the state Department of Agriculture's division of plant industries in Annapolis have been concerned about the cyst nematode moving into Maryland - particularly since the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) terminated the federal quarantine on infested states some 2½ years ago.

Originating in Manchuria, the soybean cyst nematode was first found in the U.S. in 1954 in New Hanover county, North Carolina, Dr. Weaver reported. By 1972 it had reached serious levels of infestation in Arkansas, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia. It is also now widely known in most other southeastern states, including Alabama and Georgia.

Nematodes attack the roots of soybeans, snap beans and other legume crops, the University of Maryland Extension specialist noted. Damaged plants are stunted and yellow.

Tiny white to brown, lemon-shaped cysts are often seen clinging to the roots of infected plants when they are carefully dug. These cysts are filled with eggs and are easily spread by surface water or in soil clinging to farm equipment, human shoes, or animal feet, as well as in contaminants on seed.

The greater the number of cysts, the greater the chance that some will be moved, Dr. Weaver observed. He noted that nematodes can move through the soil only a few inches per year under their own power.

Dr. Weaver warned that nematodes pose not only a major threat to soybean growers in Maryland and the Delmarva peninsula, but they could have a serious economic impact on interstate movement of nursery stock, strawberry plants and other transplants from the Old Line State.

He advised growers to make certain that all soybean seed from infested states has been certified for freedom from the cyst nematode by the state department of agriculture at the point of origin.
